Some Literary Associations of Birmingham

By ALBERT MOULD

(Librarian of the Handsworth Branch Library, Birmingham)

[In volume 4 of B. A. R. a short article by Mr. Robert K. Dent was printed, entitled Birmingham; its Libraries and its Booksellers. The present article, however, covers entirely different ground from that dealt with by Mr. Dent, and that is why a second article is devoted to one town. Ed.]

EDMUND BURKE once referred to Birmingham as the great toyshop of Europe. Although it cannot justly be termed the great bookshop of Europe literature has not an unimportant place in the triumphal progress of the town to fame.

Many books and pamphlets and long files of newspapers as well as educational institutions reflect the intellectual development of our city from humble beginnings to its present position in the front rank of the cities of the Empire, and, in the planes of standard and even classic literature occur the names of many men and women whose connexion with Birmingham add greatly to our city's lustre.

Among these are :—

Edward A. Freeman, who was born at Harborne on Aug. 2nd, 1823, and who became a famous regius professor of modern history at Oxford. As a boy he was somewhat precocious and could read Roman and English history before he was seven, had a good knowledge of Latin and Greek at eleven, and had taught himself Hebrew. It is interesting to relate that the author of the "History of the Norman Conquest" was unsuccessful in a competition for a University prize on this very subject. No doubt his failure stirred him up to study the period.

Joseph Henry Shorthouse, whose "John Inglesant" has become a classic, was born in Great Charles Street on Sept. 9th, 1834, and was educated at a quakers' school at Edgbaston. Although engaged in the family business, a chemical works, he was an intensive reader, due it is believed to a bad nervous stammer which developed powers of mental concentration. He lived from 1862-1876 in Beaufort Road, quite near to Newman at the Oratory. The story of how this manufacturer-mystic wrote his famous book and how it was received is told in the Life and Letters of J. H. Shorthouse, edited by his wife, 2 vols., 1905, published by Macmillan.

Edward Capern, the Postman Poet, Emma Jane Worboise, the novelist, Elihu Burritt, the American Consul, Sam. Timmins, who did so much for the great Reference Library of which the city is justly proud, and whose "Books on Shakespeare," published in 1885, his "Halliwell-Phillipps Collection of Shakespeare Rarities," 1889, etc., show him to be a Shakespearean scholar of no mean ability, John Thackeray Bunce, the famous editor of the "Birmingham Daily Post," whose "History of the Corporation of Birmingham" deservedly ranks as one of the greatest civic histories ever compiled, Dr. R. W. Dale the learned and popular theologian, Osmund Airy, the historian, for many years a member of the Free Libraries Committee, Miss Constance Naden, who wrote "A Modern Apostle" and other poems, Alfred Hayes, of the Birmingham and Midland Institute, poet, author of "The Last Crusade" "Vale of Arden" and other volumes of poems, Alfred Capel Shaw, a former Chief Librarian whose two volumes of poetry are well worth a place among the local literary efforts, and a sketch of whose life will be found in Wright's "West Country Poets," George Dawson, once editor of the "Birmingham Morning News," and whose works are world-wide in reputation, Bishops Lightfoot and Westcott, successively Bishops of Durham, who with Edward White Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury were educated together at the King Edward's Grammar School in New St., Cardinal Newman, founder of the Oratory at Edgbaston, and who indeed spent the greater part of his life and died there, Sir Oliver Lodge, Principal of the University, whose scientific books are so well known that mention is unnecessary here, and whose recent works relating to psychical research have given rise to so much controversy, Sir Bertram Windle, once a professor here, a popular writer on scientific and topographical subjects, John Churton Collins, the great literary critic who spent the last few years of his life as professor at the University, the late Mr. William Harris, who wrote the "History of the Radical Party in Parliament," for many years a member of the Free Libraries Committee and a great influence in the political life of the town for a generation, and of its living writers, John Drinkwater, who delights us with his poems, plays and literary criticisms, viz:—"Rebellion," "Olton Pools," "Swords and Ploughshares," "Swinburne," "William Morris," and others, Jeffrey Farnol, who resided in Birmingham, and that well-known librarian Robert K. Dent, the historian of the city.

Birmingham, too, is fortunate in having a professorial staff at the University of many men whose works in nearly every branch of modern literature have attained high fame, among which may be mentioned those on botany, by Prof. Hillhouse, on language by Prof. Sonnenschein, and works on economics by Prof. Ashley.

The early history of the literature of Birmingham has been most ably written by our late genial townsman, Mr. Joseph Hill, in his last book "The Bookmakers of Old Birmingham, Authors, Printers and Booksellers," printed at the Shakespeare Press for Cornish Bros. Ltd. in 1907. It is a book of considerable value for the bibliographer, and is most exhaustive, for everything known that can tell the complete tale of the early literary life of Birmingham has here been diligently gathered together. It is well illustrated with photographic and other reproductions of title pages and newspapers, including the title-page of "The Font Guarded" by Thomas Hall, B.D., printed in Birmingham in 1652, and believed to be the first book printed in the town. In his book Mr. Hill proves conclusively that Boswell was in error in stating that there was not even one bookseller's shop in Birmingham in his day.

Among the early booksellers of the town the best remembered is William Hutton, who wrote its first history. He came to Birmingham as a poor boy in 1741, and afterwards opened a bookseller's shop in Bull St., where he not only sold but lent books, and later became a binder.

"The History of Birmingham" was published in 1781 and was Hutton's first literary work.

Contemporary with Hutton was John Freeth, who first wrote invitations to feasts and social gatherings which he collected in 1780 into a small volume entitled "The Warwickshire Medley, or Convivial Songster," by John Free. He also published, in 1781, "A Touch on the Times, or the Modern Songster," again under the pseudonym of John Free.

Another contemporary writer was Dr. Priestley, philosopher, chemist and scientist, the discoverer of oxygen and various other gases. He was Minister of the New Meeting House in Moor St., and was considerably involved in the Birmingham Riots of 1791, during which his house at Fair Hill, Sparkbrook, was destroyed, himself and his family effecting their escape with great difficulty. It is to be regretted that in the fire, (the mob having fired his home) all his MSS. were lost. He was a prolific writer of pamphlets in which he advocated religious liberty, and his last works were a Church History and an exposition of the Scriptures. One of his great antagonists was the celebrated Bishop Horsley, sometime Rector of St. Mary, Newington.

The eighteenth century is further illuminated for us by that great printer, John Baskerville, whose beautiful printing has become a joy for ever. He was born in 1706 and first became a teacher of writing. His penmanship was most remarkable. In 1740 he took up jappanning and in 1750 turned his attention to printing. Being very particular about his type he worked many years and sank £600 before he could produce one letter to please himself. His first book was an edition of Virgil which was issued at £1 1s. and was said to be one of the most finished specimens of typography. Whilst Printer to the University of Cambridge, a post he richly deserved, he produced his folio Bible, 1763, one of the most beautifully-printed books in the world. After spending £2000 on its production he eventually lost on it. Baskerville lived at a house at Easy Hill, near King Alfred's Place. All his life he had been a freethinker, but, curiously enough, he was a Churchwarden of St. Philip's Church. He died on the 8th of January, 1775 and was buried in his own garden, in accordance with his wish, in a tomb surmounted by an urn, the inscription on the urn being written by himself. His body, however, was not destined to remain undisturbed, for in 1826 it was removed in a leaden casket to a plumber's shop, the corpse being exposed for show to the vulgar sightseer for a small sum. It remained there three years and was re-interred in 1829, its place of sepulture remaining a mystery, but in 1829 was found in the catacombs of Christ Church. In 1901 the Church was pulled down, and his body, with many others, was carried to the cemetery in Warstone Lane. His types were purchased by Beaumarchais, for his philosophical and typographical Society, for £3,700. Baskerville's chief literary adviser was the famous William Shenstone, another local poet, 1714-1763, who lived at the Leasowes, in the neighbouring township of Hales Owen.

In the latter part of the same century were born two other literary celebrities, viz :— Charles Lloyd, 1775-1839 and a lady, Mary Ann Schimmel-Penninck, 1778-1856.

Charles Lloyd was a poet and the friend of Charles Lamb. Indeed the Lloyds, Lamb and Coleridge formed a coterie of friends, and it was at Birmingham that Coleridge met Charles Lloyd, when he commenced his lecturing and preaching tour early in January 1796, which resulted in a strong friendship, so much so that Lloyd's poems were first put forth with poems by Lamb and Coleridge.

It was no doubt in a great measure due to Lamb's friendship with the Lloyds that some copies of the first edition of "Rosamund Gray" bear the imprint of Pearson, Birmingham. The title-page of this first edition was "A Tale of Rosamund Gray and Old Blind Margaret," and its rarity in this form may be gathered from the fact that a copy bearing Pearson's imprint was sold on July 24, 1906 for £122." vide Mr. Hill's book. In 1798 Charles Lloyd published with Lamb a volume of poems entitled "Blank Verse" and in the same year a novel, "Edmund Oliver."

Correspondence between Robert Lloyd and Charles Lamb was discovered in 1894 and has since been published by Mr. E. V. Lucas.

Mary Ann Schimmel-Penninck was born in Steelhouse Lane, in 1778. She was the daughter of Samuel Galton. In her Autobiography, published in 1858, the reader is referred to a detailed account of this "excellent and intelligent person." She published in 1815 "Theory of the Classification of Beauty and Deformity," 4to., £3 13s. 6d. and later "Narrative of the Demolition of the Monastery of Port Royal des Champs," and "Select Memoirs of Port Royal." The London Athenæum said her work on Port Royal, besides displaying a thorough knowledge of languages and of the bearings of the Jesuit and Jansenist controversy, was excellent as a piece of narrative.

Henry Francis Cary, born in 1772, was also a native of Birmingham. He was a poet of no mean ability, but is best known as the translator of Dante, the merits of which were perceived and brought to public attention by S. T. Coleridge. It has been said that with Cary's translation and Flaxman's designs the reader may consider himself in possession of a treasure. He was buried in the Poet's Corner at Westminster.

The little village of Harborne on the outskirts of the town seems to have attracted quite a number of literary people as a place of abode. Edward Capern, 1819-1894, lived there, also Elihu Burritt, 1810-1879, called the learned blacksmith. Burritt is said to have known fifty languages, was American Consul, and wrote "Walks in the Black Country and its Green Border-Land," a most remarkable book on the industries and resources of the Midlands, which was presented as an amplification of his Consular Report to the Department of State at Washington.

Sir Frederick Galton, grandson of Erasmus Darwin, was born at Duddeston in 1822. He was an authority on heredity.

George Mogridge, known as "Old Humphrey," who used to delight the young in the early decades of the nineteenth century, lived at Birmingham. He wrote religious books and many essays for the young, and was very popular in his day. Among his works, issued pseudonymously, was Sergeant Bell and his Raree Show,* a little volume which for many years was erroneously attributed to

Dickens. Its principal value in the present day lies in the illustrations by George Cruikshank which it contains. Mogridge used the name Peter Parley in the title-pages of some of his books, much to the annoyance of the true Peter, who justly complained.

The study of Shakespeare was the chief interest in the literary life of Charles Mansfield Ingleby, 1823-1886, who was born at Edgbaston. He was a frequent contributor to periodicals and to the transactions of learned societies, principally The New Shakespeare Society. His works include "The Shakespeare Fabrications," 1885, "A complete View of the Shakespeare Controversy," 1861, "The Still Lion" (originally published in the Jahrbücher of the German Shakespeare Society), "Shakespeare, the Man and the Book," and many others; the subjects treated include the authorship of the works attributed to Shakespeare, in answer to Mr. Donnelly. He also wrote books on the Stereoscope, 1853 and Metaphysics, 1869.

Dr. Sebastian Evans, born 1830, was editor of the Birmingham Daily Gazette, 1867-70, practised as a barrister in the town, but settled in London and became editor of a Sunday paper. He wrote "Brother Fabian's Manuscript, and other poems," 1865, "In the Studio," a decade of Poems, 1875, and edited Leicestershire Words, Phrases and Proverbs for the English Dialect Society, 1861.

The Reverend T. Hornblower Gill was born in Birmingham, and among his poems are the following:—"The Fortune of Faith," 1841, "The Anniversary," 1857, and "The Golden Chain of Praise," 1868.

In the Mid-Victorian period much interesting literary work, chiefly of a local character, was done by such men as George Edmonds, pamphleteer, Eliezer Edwards, editor of Edgbastonia, the biographer of Sir Rowland Hill, 1879, author of "Words, Facts and Phrases," 1881, and of several books on Birmingham men and local subjects, Dr. John Alfred Langford, author of "Century of Birmingham Life," "Modern Birmingham and its Institutions," "Staffordshire and Warwickshire, Past and Present," 2 vols., some volumes of poetry and several pamphlets, Toulmin Smith, who contributed the "Memorials of Old Birmingham," etc., Sam. Timmins, who wrote on the Midland Hardware District, and contributed a History of Warwickshire to the "Popular County Histories" series, and Robert K. Dent, whose "Making of Birmingham" has given us an interesting account of the rise and progress of this city. A former Chairman of the Public Libraries Committee, Mr. Councillor E. Marston Rudland, has recently enriched our knowledge and increased our interest in the early history of the city by his two volumes entitled "Ballads of Old Birmingham."

A few words must be said of newspaper enterprise, which began somewhat early and became a prominent feature in the literary activity of the town.

Our first newspaper was Warren's "Birmingham Journal," founded in 1733. Mr. Hill, in his book, above-named, refers to a single fragment of the Journal, presumably the only one known of this early newspaper, which was mentioned by Boswell. This was followed by "Aris's Birmingham Gazette," which first appeared in 1741, and has run continuously to date, changing its name to the "Birmingham Daily Gazette" in 1862, thus providing for more than a century and a half a complete record of local affairs.

In 1825 another paper appeared which, like the Gazette, has become part of the local life, viz:—"The Birmingham Journal," purchased in 1844 by Mr. Feeney, the founder of the "Post." It was first so called in 1868, and is now recognised as one of the most important newspapers of the country.

The halfpenny evening paper, "The Birmingham Daily Mail," was started in 1870 and is probably one of the most popular journals known.

Several satirical weekly papers have appeared from time to time, prominent amongst them being "The Town Crier," which ran from 1861 to 1903, "The Dart," from 1876 to 1911, and "The Owl" from 1879 to 1911, all of which it is much to be deplored are now dead. Vying with each other for prominence in satire, political and civic, they issued every week a cartoon and very remarkable they were, having considerable influence in political and municipal elections. The file of "Punch" can scarcely claim a higher place in political caricature than these clever satirical weekly journals of Birmingham.

Many other periodicals, etc., have appeared from time to time, probably the more important of them being, "The Central Literary Magazine," the organ of the Central Literary Association, which has run since 1873, the Proceedings of the Natural History and Microscopical Society, from 1869, the Proceedings of the Philosophical Society, from 1879. The Archæological Transactions of the Birmingham and Midland Institute Archæological Society, from 1870, and "Edgbastonia" from 1881, all of which are still being issued.

It is interesting to note, at this time, that a German newspaper entitled the "Deutsche Zeitung" was printed and published in Smithfield St. in 1866. It was printed in the German language, but of English type, and ran during the years 1866-7, eventually failing owing to lack of advertisements.

It would not be fitting to close this cursory survey of some of the literary associations of Birmingham without some reference to its libraries, and in particular to the great Reference Library, a succinct and interesting account of the libraries generally having been contributed to B. A. R. in 1906 by Mr. Robert K. Dent, formerly Chief Librarian at Aston. The Reference Library is of quite modern origin and reflects the zeal of many public-spirited townsmen of recent decades who have gathered together the best literature for the enjoyment and education of the people. It contains more than 256,000 volumes in all departments of literature and is of considerable value to those engaged in research work of any kind. It is rich in County Histories, and includes all the publications of numerous learned Societies, English and Foreign, such as the Parish Register, The Huguenot, The Harleian, The Index, the Manorial, the Hakluyt, the Navy Records and many other Societies. Among its multitude of interesting and important books may be mentioned the complete reproduction of the Grimani Breviary, Mansi's Sacrorum Conciliorum Collectio in facsimile, Acta Sanctorum, Patrologia Latina et Græca, the publications of the Kelmscott Press, including the "Chaucer," Tudor Facsimile Texts, the Photogravure Facsimiles of the Cambridge University Press, and a large collection of Civil War Tracts.

In 1893 it was enriched by the acquisition of the Thomas Hall Library, of King's Norton, a report on which was included in the Annual Report of the Birmingham Free Libraries for 1893. It is an interesting library and contains a number of incunabula, several in their original stamped leather bindings. A MSS. Catalogue of the Library has been prepared by Mr. W. S. Brassington, F.S.A., annotated with notes of great utility and value.

In 1901 the Library was further enriched by the bequest of the late H. Payton Badley, Esq., of Insetton, Belbroughton, of his library of 7000 vols. It is well selected and consists mainly of choice and well-bound editions of standard works, and includes a copy of the first edition of Shelley's Adonais, Pisa, 1821, Boydell's Shakespeare, 9 vols., and Roberts's Holy Land, 1843, and Egypt and Nubia, 1846.

The Catalogue of the Library was issued in 1890 at a guinea, and in its day was recognised as one of the most important library catalogues issued. It was compiled by the late Mr. J. D. Mullins, Chief Librarian from 1865 to 1898, and is a monument to his librarianship. This devoted librarian died in 1900 bequeathing 100 guineas, free of legacy duty, to the Shakespeare Memorial Library.

It is not necessary here to make more than a passing reference to the world-famous Shakespeare Memorial Library of Birmingham, for the present Chief Librarian, Mr. Walter Powell, has contributed a paper full of interesting and valuable information to the Library Association Record for 1916, a perusal of which will well repay the reader for his trouble. The Library now contains 15,000 volumes, a catalogue of which, once termed "The Bradshaw of Shakespeare," was compiled in 1903 by the then Chief Librarian, Mr. A. Capel Shaw, in which he was ably assisted by his successor, the present Chief Librarian.

One of the most important features of the Reference Library is its Local Collection, a collection of great value, gathered together with assiduous care since the foundation of the Library. A special catalogue, estimated to consist of 1400 pages, is now in course of preparation, a glance through which will show the impossibility of exhausting this subject in the course of a brief survey. The collection contains a large number of local deeds, additions being frequently obtained by gift and purchase, and includes even the Minute Books of local Societies, and much matter invaluable to the historian.

Since the above-named article by Mr. Dent was written the city has extended its boundaries, and has greatly benefited by the acquisition of the useful libraries of Aston, Erdington, Handsworth and the King's Norton district, making a total of 22 Lending Libraries under the administration of the Birmingham Public Libraries.

The popularity of our libraries is shown by the fact that for the year ending March 31st, 1916, no fewer than 1,896,646 volumes were issued.

[The illustration which accompanies this article is a reproduction of an engraving published in 1792 by J. Johnson, of St. Paul's Churchyard, London. It represents the house built by Baskerville for himself, but, as is seen by the engraving, partly consumed by fire. A paragraph from a London magazine of July 23rd., 1791, reads as follows:—Among the articles consumed at Mr. Ryland's, at Birmingham, was the body of the late Mr. Baskerville, who by will ordered he should be buried in his own house, and he was accordingly interred there. A stone closet was erected in it, where he was deposited in a standing posture. The house was afterwards sold with this express condition, that it should remain there. Ed.]

WISE (Thomas J.) A Bibliography of the Writings in Prose and Verse of William Wordsworth, 1916; A Bibliography of the Writings in Prose and Verse of the Members of the Brontë Family, 1917. 2 vol., 4to., boards, 100 copies each, printed for private circulation only, for Richard Clay and Sons, Limited.

Booksellers, Collectors and Lovers of English Literature generally owe a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Thomas J. Wise for his admirable series of bibliographies of notable English Writers. Including the above mentioned, eight of these excellent works have been issued, and a further eight are in course of preparation (vide List appended to the Brontë volume). The utmost care appears to have been taken in the compilation, with the result that the bibliographies are veritable "catalogues raisonnés," and may be regarded as absolutely authoritative. Errors, even misprints, are conspicuous by their absence. There is moreover, an obvious advantage in the fact that Mr. Wise has actually seen and handled every item he records. A chronological arrangement of published works is adopted. The whole of the title-page is quoted: bars are introduced to indicate line-endings, and where a typographical ornament or a printer's device occurs it is duly noted; then follow the size, a full collation, and a minute description of the original binding. In many cases notes of considerable interest are appended. The presence in each bibliography of numerous facsimiles of title-pages etc., and of the author's autograph, adds very much to the usefulness and interest, especially from the reference-book point of view.

While these well-planned and exhaustive bibliographies undoubtedly supply a long-felt and much-needed want, it is to me a matter of much regret that the volumes are issued, in a limited edition, for private circulation only, and are therefore not available for the humble collector or bibliographer. Possibly, in the near future, Mr. Wise may be induced to allow of reprints to be made, if not for public issue then on a subscription or similar basis.

A. G. E. P.
[The forthcoming bibliographies by Mr. Wise are those of Byron, Dryden, Gay, Landor, Pope, Prior, Shelley and Swinburne. It is possible that when they are all completed Mr. Wise will reprint them for general circulation; "a consummation devoutly to be wished" (as one of the characters in one of Morton's glorious old Haymarket farces of 50 years ago used to say) by all librarians, booksellers and collectors. Ed.]

WALTER JAMES LEIGHTON

On November 16th., 1917, the death occurred of Mr. W. J. Leighton. Some of the following particulars appeared in various journals and may be placed on permanent record here.

Mr. Leighton, who was in his sixty-eighth year, carried on the business of Messrs. J. and J. Leighton, at 40, Brewer Street, Golden Square, which was founded there by his grandfather, John Leighton, (a Scotsman from Glasgow), in 1798, and conducted subsequently by his father and his uncle. Indeed, little is known of the origin of his family, except that it was Scottish, but it is believed that one of Mr. Leighton's ancestors was Archbishop Leighton, founder of the Bibliotheca Leightoniana at Dunblane, and that this was so is more than probable from the fact that Mr. Leighton adopted the pseudonym of "Gualterus Dumblanensis" as noted below. If this is correct it is one more example of atavism, and Mr. Leighton's love of rare books is at once accounted for. Originally the firm was a bookbinding one only, but before he was thirty Mr. W. J. Leighton had added to its business that of buying and selling old books, in which he was to become a leading practitioner. Early printed books and early manuscripts were the rare things he specialised on, and—himself an important collector—he was the medium through which notable examples of these were gathered into many famous libraries. One of his earliest clients was Sir William Stirling-Maxwell; others were Lord Rothschild, the Earl of Crawford, and the late Mr. Charles Butler. It was through Mr. Leighton, too, that Mr. Fairfax Murray acquired many of the contents of his library. The esteem in which he was held in the bibliophilic world is shown by a remark made recently by an English nobleman, viz. "I was Mr. Leighton's customer, but Mr. Leighton was my friend." He was one of the early presidents of the International Association of Antiquarian Booksellers, and to the last took the liveliest interest in its work and activities. Shortly after his death Mr. Gilbert Dalziel wrote as follows:—"Mr. Leighton, of whom you spoke in your last issue, was as a young man quite a clever amateur actor? In association with his close friends the late Edgar Smart, son of Henry Smart the composer, and the late E. G. Dalziel, he was a member of the St. George's Amateur Dramatic Club, and between the years 1865 and 1870 he was playing important parts in the burlesques of H. J. Byron, F. C. Burnand, and Andrew Halliday, and in the farces of J. Maddison Morton, Charles Mathews, J. T. Williams, William Brough, J. B. Buckstone, and John Hollingshead. In those happy days Walter Leighton was known to us all as Leightonio—as genial and kindly hearted a soul as ever breathed, and with many friends."

To the above particulars I may add that in recent years, through our membership of the Association, an intimate friendship sprang up between us, and I shall never cease to regret his untimely death. For, although he was approaching the "allotted span" there was such a spirit of youth in him that one could not think that he might soon be taken from us. Six years ago, when he was 62 years of age, he danced the Highland Fling, with another well-known London bookseller, in my drawing-room, with a tartan plaid shawl wound round his shoulders, and you might have thought him a boy. He was amiability itself and so full of modesty that he told me a year before his death that he did not consider he had achieved success. Yet he was one of the foremost booksellers of his day! A relative writes:—"Looking back I wonder more and more how Walter accomplished what he did from such a beginning, and had little capital to work on at first. The business as it is to-day is a monument of hard work and energetic enterprise." An instance of his modesty is the following. In volume 9 of B. A. R. is an article by him entitled 'Notes on the Exhibition of Books, Broad-sides, Proclamations, Portraits, Autographs, etc., illustrative of the History and Progress of Bookselling in England, 1477-1800, held at Stationers' Hall, 25-29 June, 1912.' The name of the writer was given as "Gualterus Dumblanensis." I added the following note to the article. 'There will be some who will recognise in "Gualterus Dumblanensis" the hand of one of the best living authorities upon the subject of early-printed books. The article was written under very great pressure of time and work, and it was only the writer's very well-known kindly nature that prompted him not to refuse a request without acquiescence to which my subscribers would have had no such Introduction to this year's volume. The writer's modesty equals his ability, for he absolutely declined to sign the article with anything but a pseudonym.' One of his sisters wrote a day or two after his death, "Everything seems just a blank. Walter was everything to us all, the best brother that ever lived I think," and later she wrote, "It will be many a long day before we cease to feel most keenly the loss of dear old Wat, with his cheery hearty ways at home and the many delights of outings and visits with him." In reading such letters one recalls George Eliot's lines,

To live in hearts we leave behind
Is not to die.

By some of his confrères of the sale-rooms he was affectionately addressed as "Wally," the abbreviation of his first Christian name "Walter." He had been married—and married very happily—but his wife pre-deceased him by some years and there was no family. In his younger days he was an enthusiastic Volunteer and an officer in the Artists' Corps, of which he was Musketry Instructor, and his sense of patriotism was so great that although he was burdened with a great business and was issuing catalogues which were the admiration of the book-world, and although also he was, through the exigencies of the war, left alone to carry on the business, still he insisted on joining the Putney Volunteer Training Corps and doing work which no man of his age ought to have done, taking part in the regular work of trench-digging and route marches in all weathers. At his funeral the coffin was covered with the Union Jack and he was carried to the grave by members of his Corps, and at the end their bugles sounded the Last Post. And so he leaves us with an honoured and a loving memory and a lasting regret for his loss.

COLLOQUIALISMS

The following, from Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus, would not be a bad motto for a bookseller's catalogue:—

"Take choice of all my library
And so beguile thy sorrow."

A motto particularly applicable to the present time, made sorrowful by the ravaging of Europe by imperial criminals.

* * *

One of the most entertaining books connected with books that I have ever read is entitled The Unpublishable Memoirs, by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, of that well-known book firm the Rosenbach Company, of Philadelphia. Having once begun to read, I finished it at a sitting. It consists of eleven stories, under such headings as The Unpublishable Memoirs (of Beau Brummel), The Disappearance of Shakespeare, The Lady of the Breviary, The Evasive Pamphlet, 'The Fifteen Joys of Marriage', etc. Most bookmen are aware that Mr. Rosenbach is fully acquainted with the inside of the book-world of the United States, and in these stories of his there appear well-known characters, such as "Mr. Robert Rodd," bookseller, of Fifth Avenue, "William S. Fields," and "John Libro," while it is easy to understand the identity of the New York bibliophilic club here named "the Maioli Club" and that of the famous New York auction-house denominated the "Amhurst Auction Galleries." Then it has a frontispiece, by Oliver Herford, which must be a joy to all book-lovers, and is itself worth the published price of $1.50 (6s.). It depicts the fight of the Bibliofiends for the possession of coveted volumes, and is one of the comicallest things I have ever seen. The conventional representation of the British Lion and Unicorn fighting for the Crown is as nothing to it. The book is published by Mitchell Kennerley, New York, and can be obtained by order through any bookseller.

A bookseller recently wrote to me stating that each volume of B. A. R. contained many records of the same books, suggesting thereby (he not being a regular subscriber) that it was perhaps not worth subscribing. In my reply I told him that B. A. R. was an invaluable tool of his trade ; that his contention was true, but that he had forgotten that prices fluctuate from year to year, and that there seems to be almost as much fashion in books as there is in ladies' costumes. To take one instance alone, five or six years ago Boys's Views of London could be bought in any sale-room for twenty-five shillings. To-day it brings £10 and upwards. There are many similar examples, and the bookseller who boggles at paying the subscription-price of B. A. R. in order to learn the current value of his goods had better retire from business. But when vol. 14 was ready I sent it to that bookseller, and he kept it.

But in addition to the variation of values there is the fact that every volume of B. A. R. contains the records of works which have never before occurred during the fifteen years of its existence. In proof of this statement of mine here is an extract from a letter written by a London subscriber on March 2nd., 1917 :—" It is curious, in your current issue, just received, I notice a record of a work for which I have looked in vain since vol. 7 (the volume for the year in which the writer of the letter began to subscribe)—one of which I had but a vague idea of value."

There is only one thing that I ever complain about, to myself, respecting B. A. R., viz. that there is never space enough for me to print all that I want to say to you. This quarter there are " heaps of things " left over, but they must wait. The autocratic printer writes that he requires one page only, and one page only it has to be.

OVERSEAS

Albany, N. Y., U. S. A. The Joseph McDonough Company, 58 South Pearl Street. No. 338. Catalogue of Scarce and Fine Books, embracing Americana, England, Ireland, Occult, Theology, etc., 349 items.

Boston, U. S. A. Goodspeed's Book Shop. No. 121. The Medicott Library (with additions), Works on Anglo-Saxon and Early-English Language, Antiquities, History and Literature; Anglican Ecclesiastical, Law, Ritual, and History; Heraldry; Lives and Works of the Reformers; Public Records; Numismatics; Topography; Nomenclature; Archaeology; Early Versions of the Bible, etc., 1136 items. Mr. Medicott was a native of Bristol, and emigrated to America at 14 years of age. It would appear that he was not a well-educated man, from the school-learning point of view, but he was a real lover of books, and he collected a library of early-printing, illuminated manuscripts, etc. His portrait, given on the title-page of the Goodspeed catalogue, shows him to have been a typical Englishman of what we style the "middle-classes."

Mexico City, Mexico. Blake's Bulletin, Ave. 16 de Septiembre 13, Monthly List of Books, Nos. 55-56-57, listing books of all the centuries of printing, from a Justinus of 1532 to an edition of the present day.

Sussex Book-Collectors Past and Present

BY ETHEL GERARD

It is a good thing to read books, and it need not be a bad thing to write them ; but it is a pious thing to preserve those that have been some time written.

F. LOCKER-LAMPSON

IT should be a matter of great pride to us as a nation that some of the world's greatest book-collectors have been Englishmen, and a matter of still greater pride to Sussex people that several of the most celebrated have been connected with that County. Practical level-headed people are often prone to regard book-collectors with mixed feelings—feelings partly of pity and partly of amusement—as being folk harmlessly but quite hopelessly mad. But when doing this they forget that it was the “pious” collectors of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries who, after the abbeys and religious houses were dissolved, rescued many of the treasures that had fallen from the monastic libraries into the hands of the Philistines. These reclaimed treasures, together with others from the celebrated early presses of the continent, which had become better known, owing to the spread of culture and learning in the days of Elizabeth, laid the foundation of many an afterwards famous library. From then until now the book-lover's passion has never died out in this country ; it was at its height in the early days of the nineteenth century, when many rare and unique volumes were often to be bought for a few pence or shillings. But these days, which are even now dear in the thoughts of collectors, were soon over. Men of money, as well as men of letters, began to vie with one another for the acquisition of these treasures, and prices went up in sale-room and shop. Towards the middle of the century interest flagged for a few years, only to revive later with increased enthusiasm, and many collectors of to-day can worthily be proud of their magnificent libraries.

Perhaps Henry Fitzalan 22nd. Earl of Arundel and 14th. and last Earl of the Fitzalan family, who was born about the year 1513, may be regarded as being the first Sussex book-collector of any note. He was a god-child of Henry VIII. and was regarded by him with special favour. When only twenty-three years of age he became Governor of Calais and greatly distinguished himself in the French Wars. He held high appointments under Edward VI., Mary and Elizabeth, but daring to aspire to the hand of the latter queen he incurred her displeasure, and was for a time made prisoner. After living in retirement for some years he died in London in 1580, and was buried “with solomne pompe” in the Collegiate Chapel at Arundel, where his monument can still be seen. He was twice married, first to Katherine, daughter of Thomas Grey, Marquis of Dorset, and aunt to Lady Jane Grey ; and afterwards to Mary, daughter of Sir John Arundel and widow of Robert Radcliffe, 1st Earl of Sussex. Lord Arundel was the owner of a library “righte worthy of remembrance,” many of the books in which formerly belonged to Archbishop Cranmer. Upon his death he bequeathed it to his son-in-law John, Lord Lumley, who was already the possessor of another fine library, which, together with the Arundel one, was at Lord Lumley's death in 1609 purchased by Henry, Prince of Wales and became part of the old Royal Library which has since been housed in the British Museum.

The next Sussex Collector of any note was John Selden, the famous jurist. He came of yeoman stock and was born in 1584 at Salvington, a small hamlet a mile or so from the town of Worthing. He was educated at the Free Grammar School, Chichester, afterwards passing to Hart College, Oxford, where he matriculated in 1600. In 1602 he was entered at Clifford's Inn, but two years later was admitted to the Inner Temple. He was called to the Bar in 1612 and in a few years had gained, as well as a considerable reputation as an author, the esteem and friendship of such learned and influential men as Ben Jonson, Archbishop Asher, Camden and Michael Drayton. In 1610 he published “England's Epinomis,” “The Duello” and “Jani Anglorum Facies altera,” and at Drayton's request he wrote in 1612 notes for the first eighteen cantos of the “Polyolbion.” In 1614 his famous book “Titles of Honour” was published, and the following year his “Analecton Anglo-Britannicon,” which he had completed eight years previously, was published at Frankfurt. His "History of Tythes," probably the best known of his books, appeared in 1618 and was dedicated to his friend Sir Robert Cotton, one of the most famous of English book-collectors. He wrote a number of other books, and was not only famous as an author (for he played an important part in the Constitutional struggles of his day) but was regarded as being the leading legal authority of the time. In 1621 he was imprisoned in the Tower for denying the assertion of James I. that the privileges of both Houses were originally grants from the Crown, but was soon released, and entered the House of Commons in 1623. He was afterwards made Keeper of the Rolls and Records in the Tower, and in 1645 a Commissioner of the Admiralty. He died in 1654, leaving a fortune of £40,000 and a library "rich in classics and science, theology and history, law and Hebrew literature." It is said he purposed leaving his books to the Bodleian Library, but having been refused the loan of a certain Manuscript, except upon deposit of a large sum, he revoked his will and left one portion of his library to Oxford University, another to the College of Physicians and the remainder to be disposed of by his Executors, as they thought best, except by sale. The books were offered upon certain conditions to the Inner Temple but as there was no accommodation for them the offer was refused; they were then given to the Bodleian Library, with the stipulation that they should be chained, so fulfilling Selden's original intention. During the time they were stored in the Temple, before being sent to Oxford, a disastrous fire occurred there, with the unfortunate result that eight chests of manuscripts and many registers of religious houses were destroyed. The bulk of the books were saved however, and about eight thousand volumes, many of them very rare and of great interest, and a number of manuscripts went to the Bodleian. Among the books was one printed by John Lair, or, as he was better known, John Siberch, the first Cambridge printer. It was the second book printed by him, i.e. Augustine's De miseria ac brevitate vite, a little book of twelve leaves, with a Greek motto on the title page, specially interesting as being the first specimen of printing from genuine moveable Greek type used in England. Selden's copy is the only one known. In addition to his manuscripts and books Selden had a fine collection of Greek marbles, which he also bequeathed to the Oxford University.

After the death of Selden the next Collector of any importance was Bertram, 4th Earl of Ashburnham. He was born in 1797, and was a member of the ancient Sussex family of Ashburnham, long resident in the place of that name, near the once important town of Battle. The collection Lord Ashburnham gathered together became one of the most celebrated and valuable of English private libraries. The Earl is said to have commenced collecting when only a lad of seventeen, and during fifty years he gathered together some of the most perfect copies of the rarest and choicest books, and also a very important collection of Manuscripts. His collection of printed books was particularly rich in Bibles, Missals, and Service books. Among the former were two copies of the Gutenberg Bible, one upon vellum and the other upon paper; the vellum copy was formerly in the Perkins Collection and was purchased by the Earl for £3,400. There was also a vellum copy of Fust and Schoffer's Latin Bible of 1462, a copy of the Biblia Pauperum, Tyndale's translation of the Pentateuch and the Coverdale Bible of 1535. When the collection was sold the Gutenberg, and Fust and Schoffer vellum bibles realized £4,000, and £1,500 respectively, and the Coverdale Bible £820. The library also included a large number of incunabula from the most famous continental presses, and a number of Caxtons and Wynkyn de Worde, the four folios of Shakespeare, the first five editions of Walton's Compleat Angler, and many early and rare editions of the poets. Important as was the Ashburnham collection of books it was even surpassed in importance and value by the collection of manuscripts, which numbered nearly 4,000. The Earl, who was most assiduous in his search for rare manuscripts, purchased, in addition to those he acquired singly, the three great collections of Count Libri, Jean Barrois, and that of the Duke of Buckingham known as the Stowe Collection. For the Libri and Stowe Collections he gave £8,000 each, and for the Barrois £6,000. The Earl died in 1878, and in 1883 his successor offered these collections of manuscripts to the British Museum for £160,000. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, however, refused to sanction the purchase of the complete collection and only those which had formed the Stowe Collection were acquired; for these the Government gave £45,000. They were divided between the British Museum and the Library of the Royal Irish Academy in Dublin. To the latter institution were given the Irish manuscripts and certain other books relating to Ireland, including the famous early Irish manuscript known as the Stowe Missal and its equally famous Cumdach, which had formerly belonged to the monasteries of Lorrha and Ratisbon. Some of the manuscripts in the Libri and Barrois collections were believed to have been at one time stolen from some of the great continental libraries, and certain of the collections were sold in 1887 to the German Government for £24,000. The German authorities were largely moved to make this purchase for the purpose of retrieving the long lost and famous thirteenth-century manuscript known as the Manesse Liederbuch, which was stolen from Heidelberg about the middle of the seventeenth century. As this was the only manuscript in the collection they really wanted (after retaining it they sold the remainder to the Bibliothèque Nationale for £6000)—the Manesse Liederbuch can well be called a costly item! The French authorities in their turn retained those they needed to replace the stolen manuscripts from their libraries and sold the rest to the Italian government. The remaining manuscripts in the Barrois Collection were sold in June 1901. There were 628 lots in the sale and the sum realized by them was £33,217 6s. 6d. Of the items fetching very high prices may be mentioned La vie du vaillant Bertrand Du Guesclin, a fourteenth-century manuscript on vellum, by Cuvelier £1,500; La legende des Sains qui est ditte Legendre Doree, £1,500; Le Roman de Lancelot du Lac, another fourteenth-century manuscript on vellum, in three volumes, sold for £1,800; Jehan de Courcy's magnificent Chronique Generale ditte de la Bourcachardiere £1,420 and a collection of Anglo-Saxon charters which realized £305. In addition to the manuscripts contained in the famous collections already mentioned there was a large number bought singly by Lord Ashburnham—these were sold to Mr. Yates Thompson for about £40,000, and he, after selecting such as he required to complete his collection, sold the remainder by auction in 1899, the sale realizing close on £8,600. The most important item in it was the later version of Wycliffe's translation of the English Bible, known as the Bramhill Manuscript. It was written upon vellum and bound in red calf and was sold for £1,750. Lord Ashburnham's bindings were not a special feature of his library, in fact many of his early printed books were in very bad condition, although there was included in his library the celebrated manuscript known as the Gospels of Lindau, which was most exquisitely bound in a gold and jewelled binding. The workmanship of this binding is of two different dates, the earlier and finer side being about the latter half of the ninth century, and the other side showing a fine specimen of Carolingian art, being about the eleventh or twelfth century. This beautiful book sold for £10,000 and has since gone to America. The printed books were sold in three sections in 1897 and 1898. Some of the prices realized were unprecedented, and many of the items sold at an enormous profit. The edition of Walton's Angler before mentioned, for which Lord Ashburnham paid £200, sold for £800, Caxton's Life of Jason, bought for £87, realized £2,100, and the Merlin of 1498, bought for 80 guineas, sold for £760. Of the Caxtons Cordiale sold for £760, Canterbury Tales for £720, Book of the Order of Chyvelry £340, Chronicles of England £610, Caton £295, Boethius £510 and the Chronicles of St. Albans £180. A Boccaccio printed by Colard Mansion at Bruges, 1476, £695, the 1st folio Shakespeare sold for £585, the 2nd. edition for £90; and the 3rd for £190. Canterbury Tales printed by Pynson, 1493, £233. Juliana Berner's Book of St. Albans, 1st edition, formerly in the Duke of Roxburghe's Library, and then imperfect, purchased for £147 by Lord Ashburnham and completed by him, sold for £385. The sale realized altogether £62,712 7s. 6d.

Although the next Sussex library with which we deal cannot compete in importance and value with the one just described it gains somewhat in interest as being the property of a poet and author of some considerable importance; it is that of Frederick Locker-Lampson, formerly and better known as Frederick Locker, author of London Lyrics. Locker was the second son of Edward Hawke Locker, Civil Commissioner of Greenwich Hospital, and grandson of Captain W. Locker, the famous friend of Nelson. He was born at Greenwich Hospital in 1821, and grew up in daily association with the beautiful old furniture, prints and pictures with which his father had surrounded himself. Leaving school he became junior clerk in a Colonial broker's office, and afterwards deputy reader and présis writer in the Admiralty. In 1850 he married Lady Charlotte Bruce, daughter of the seventh Earl of Elgin, who bought the celebrated Elgin marbles from Greece. Shortly after his marriage he retired from Government service, but even in his Admiralty days the instinct he had inherited from his ancestors—especially from his maternal grandfather, the Rev. Jonathan Boucher, one of the greatest book-collectors of his day—had begun to assert itself. He commenced collecting by buying old furniture and china, but as prices were high and his means were then small, this particular form of collecting was forced to give way to something less expensive; so drawings by the old masters and small pictures took the place of the old china and furniture,—but as prices were ascending with pictures as with furniture he was forced to again turn his attention to what was then a less expensive hobby—to the collecting of old books. At first he collected only books dealing with poetry and drama from 1590-1610, but eventually these time barriers were enlarged and many rare books extending from Caxtons to the poets of the last century were included. Lady Charlotte Locker died in 1872, and in 1874 Mr. Locker married Miss Hannah Jane Lampson, only daughter of Sir Curtis Miranda Lampson of Rowfant, Sussex, and in 1885 assumed the additional name of Lampson. After his second marriage he removed his collection of pictures, drawings, manuscripts, autograph letters and books to Rowfant, where amid 'the circle of the Sussex hills' he afterwards chiefly resided, and which lent its name to the collection afterwards famous as the Rowfant Library. The Rowfant Collection was very rich in first and rare editions of the English poets and in Shakespeares. It contained a perfect copy of the first folio, and first editions of the poems, sonnets and Lucrece, as well as nearly thirty quarto plays, many of which were original editions. A catalogue of 232 of these treasures was compiled with an introduction by their owner, and published by Mr. Quaritch in 1886. This catalogue contains a frontispiece by Cruikshank, an etched portrait of Mr. Locker-Lampson by G. Du Maurier, and a sketch of his study, also many interesting notes, both personal and bibliographical, and some verses by the late Andrew Lang. An appendix to this catalogue, the work of Mr. Godfrey Locker-Lampson, and containing the additions to the library since 1886, was published in 1900, after the death of Mr. Locker-Lampson. It also contained some more verses by Andrew Lang, and other contributions by Mr. Austin Dobson, Mr. Wilfrid Blunt and the Earl of Crewe, and a preface by Mr. Augustine Birrell. Although most of the books in the Rowfant Library have been dispersed these catalogues still remain, and are in themselves greatly treasured by collectors, but though they are still procurable they are only for the wealthy, for the 1886 issue is priced at £6 6s. and the Appendix at £1 10s. and even second-hand copies which only very occasionally come into the market are priced from £3 3s. to £5 5s. Although it is as a connoisseur and collector that Frederick Locker-Lampson figures in these pages passing mention must be made of his work as a poet and author. As a poet he had very genuine and highly cultivated gifts which he modelled somewhat in the style of Præd. His London Lyrics, which he commenced while at the Admiralty, was published in 1857, and in 1867 he published his well-known anthology Lyra Elegantiarum and in 1879 Patchwork, which, as his son-in-law Mr. Augustus Birrell has said, is "a little book of extracts of unrivalled merit."

Another owner of a fine Sussex Library was James Orchard Halliwell-Phillipps the distinguished Shakespearean scholar and biographer. James Orchard Halliwell, as he was formerly known, commenced his literary life when only sixteen by contributing a series of articles on the lives of the mathematicians to The Parthenon. He was a member of many learned and literary societies and his literary activity was enormous, yet it was in connection with his researches in, and his subsequent writings upon, the life and work of Shakespeare, that his name as an author is best known. It is however with him as a collector rather than an author that we are interested. Like the Earl of Ashburnham he began to buy books and manuscripts at a very early age, but although he commenced collecting them in the days when rare volumes were frequently to be met with in second hand shops and bought for a small sum, these times did not last for long, nor did his funds last as long as they. So he frequently found it necessary to part with portions of his collections—sometimes to satisfy his creditors, but more often to appease his own insatiable desire to acquire some still rarer volume, for as often as he sold he bought again. A sale of some of his books in 1868 included one specially interesting item in the shape of the autograph signature of Shakespeare affixed to the mortgage deed of a house in Blackfriars, and dated March 1, 1612-13. The autograph, which was discovered in 1768 by a solicitor, Mr. Albany Wallis, among the title-deeds of the same estate at Blackfriars, was presented to David Garrick and after his death was lost sight of for some years, only to again fall into the hands of Mr. Antony Wallis, son of its former discoverer. This valuable autograph, which is one of the few genuine ones known, was purchased by the British Museum. Halliwell, who was a Roman Catholic, married in 1842 the eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Phillipps, the noted antiquary, who strongly opposed and never forgave the marriage. Sir Thomas's religious prejudice was so great that he decreed in his will that neither his daughter, her husband or any Roman Catholic should ever enter his house. It is said, however, that the first person sent for after his death to value his library was Toovey the bookseller, who was a Roman Catholic! In 1872 Halliwell assumed by royal letters patent the additional surname of Phillipps and upon the death of his wife in 1879 he became possessed of the extensive entailed property in Worcestershire she had inherited from her father. It was shortly before his wife's death that Halliwell-Phillipps's connection with Sussex began. He bought in 1877-8 some ground at Hollingbury Copse, near Brighton, intending to build upon it a family residence; in the meanwhile however he erected a large wooden bungalow into which he gradually moved his collection from London, and to accommodate which he added several galleries and rooms, and after a while relinquished his idea of building a house. For the last ten years of his life he lived and worked in "that quaint wigwam on the Sussex Downs," surrounded, to quote again his own words, with "more rarities connected with the personal and literary history of the Great Dramatist than are elsewhere to be found south of the Metropolis." In addition to his fine Shakespeare Collection he possessed many valuable manuscripts and a number of wood blocks and electro-plates, which he left at his death to the Shakespeare Society of New York. He was always a generous collector, and even at the time when his resources were limited gave several valuable donations to public institutions. In 1851 he gave over 3000 broadsides, ballads, poems, etc., to the Chetham Library, Manchester, and the following year a collection of several thousand bills, accounts and inventories illustrating the history of prices between 1650 and 1750, to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington. He also made valuable donations to the libraries at Penzance and Edinburgh University and presented several hundreds of volumes to the Public Library at Brighton on condition that they were kept in a special collection. In a number of the volumes he presented to Brighton is to be found in his handwriting "E. for E. R.," this superscription meaning "Entered for Extended Reading." The books he intended to read again were marked in this way. He originally designed to leave his magnificent Shakespeare collection to the town of Stratford-on-Avon, but having in 1884 a serious disagreement with the authorities concerning the cataloguing of certain Shakespearian documents he revoked his will, desiring that after his death his collection should be offered to the Birmingham Corporation for £7000, and if the offer were not accepted they could then be sold for £10,000, if however no one came forward and offered this amount they could then be disposed of in one lot. The Birmingham authorities refused the offer and the collection is still unsold. More than 300 volumes of literary correspondence, private papers, books and manuscripts, he left to Edinburgh University, the remainder of his library he left to a nephew who disposed of it by auction in July 1889; the sale lasted for four days and realized £2,298.

An important library not without interest to Sussex people is the Lamport Library, a portion of which is now in the King's Library in the British Museum. In the autumn of 1867 there was found in a disused lumber-room at Lamport Hall, Northamptonshire, a number of very rare Elizabethan books. Many of them were the only copies known to be in existence. They included the 1599 edition of Venus and Adonis, also The Lamentation of Amintas for the death of Phillis; paraphrastically translated out of the Latine into English hexameters by Abraham Francke 1596; and Cyril Turner's Transformed metamorphosis of 1600. Of fifteen of the books purchased by the British Museum only single copies are known. The grant made by the State was not large enough to buy all the books in the Lamport Collection and so the majority were purchased by Mr. Christie-Miller and added to his already fine collection at Britwell. The Sussex interest connected with the Lamport Collection is the fact that Sir Charles Isham, its former owner, though a member of an old Northamptonshire family, lived for several years at Horsham, where his daughter, Mrs. Macleod, wife of the Macleod of Macleod, still has a house.

Another Sussex library was that of Major Thomas Gaisford, of Offington, near Worthing. Its owner was the eldest son of Dean Gaisford, the eminent Greek scholar. Major Gaisford was first married in 1850 to Horatia, daughter of Rear-Admiral Charles Feilding, after her death he married Lady Emily St. Lawrence, eldest daughter of the third Earl of Howth and his third wife was Lady Alice Mary Ker, daughter of the seventh Marquis of Lothian. Offington was formerly the property of the Earls De La Warr and for several generations was their place of family residence, it was afterwards the home of Sir Thomas Alford, to whom Selden (our first mentioned Sussex book-collector) was a visitor. Major Gaisford inherited many of his distinguished father's bibliographical interests and the library he gathered together was rich with many coveted and rare editions of the works of early English, Italian and French poets and dramatists. It contained the first four folio Shakespeares as well as a number of first editions of the separate plays and the 1640 edition of the poems. Among other rare books were included the Roman de la Rose, 1480, the Hypnerotomachia Poliphili printed by Aldus at Venice, 1499, the Mirror for Magistrates, 1587, Puttenham's Arte of English Poesie, 1589, Skelton's Pithy Pleasaunt and Profitable Works, 1568, and a copy of the Ariae Montani Benedicti Dictatum Christianum from the library of Diane de Poitiers, magnificently bound by Le Fauchaux and printed by Plantinus at Antwerp in 1575; this copy sold for £94 10s. The collection also included a number of early songs. The Library was sold by auction in 1890, and the sale, which lasted for eight days, consisted of 2,218 lots and realized £9,236. Some of the items fetched fair prices. Of the most interesting may be mentioned the four folio Shakespeares which realised £198, £60, £168, and £62 respectively, the 1640 edition of the Poems £52, the first edition of Love's Labour Lost £145, the 1600 of Midsummer Night's Dream £116, the first edition of the The Merrie Wives £385, the Kilmarnock edition of Burns's Poems 1786 £120, the Giunta edition of Boccaccio's Decamerone, bound by Le Fauchaux £64, Blake's Songs of Innocence 1789-94 £87, his First Book of Urizen 1794 £66, and his America and Europe 1793 and 1794 £61 and £59 respectively.

Mr. Charles Leeson Prince, of the Observatory, Crowborough, was the owner of a library of some importance. It was sold in March, 1900, and in addition to many interesting books contained a number of portraits and engravings of considerable local interest. Among the books were copies of Koburger's Nuremberg Chronicle, 1493, Boetius De Philosophica Consolatione, printed by Gruninger in 1501, Missal ad Usus insignai Ecclesie Sarisburnensis, 1555, many early scientific works of considerable importance and specimens of early printing from the presses of Schöffer, Quentel, Zell and others.

A pathetic interest attaches to the library of the late Mr. Cornelius Paine, who lived at 9, Lewes Crescent, Brighton, as the owner was blind for some years prior to his death. The library was sold in February 1891 and the sale lasted for eight days. Among the books were a number from the presses of Wynkyn de Worde, Pynson, Treveris and other early English printers; some rare Bibles including Matthew's Bible 1538, and Service-books. Of the other books that were sold may be mentioned the first edition of Aristophanis Comoediæ Novem, 1498, formerly in the Stowe Library, the Nuremberg Chronicle, 1493, Chaucer's Workes, 1542, first folio edition of Chapman's Homer, 1610, first edition of Burton's Anatomy of Melancholy, Oxford 1621, Randolph's Poetical and Dramatic Works, printed on vellum, of which only two copies are known, the other being in the Huth Collection. The library also included a number of works relating to the county, many first and rare editions of the early English poets and dramatists and a fine collection of Defoe's works.

We now come to almost the last library upon our list — that of Mr. John Pearson, of Home House, Worthing. Mr. Pearson has been a collector for over forty years and the library he gathered together during that time was rich in many bibliographical treasures. In 1913 he sold a portion of his collection and the two-day's sale, consisting of four hundred and fifty-five items, realized £2,274. A second portion was sold the following year for £4,648. Of the interesting and rare volumes that were then disposed of mention may be made of a very fine copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle 1493, Rabelais' Songes Drolatiques de Pantagruel, printed in Paris in 1565 and bound by Padeloup, Palmerin D'Oliva's Mirroir of Nobilitie 1588, of which only one other perfect copy is known, Peyton's Glasse of Time, of which no perfect copy is known, a beautiful Tacitus printed by Elzevir and bound by Du Seuil, David Garrick's copies of The Siege of Aquileia and Di Tito Lucrezio Caro, bound for him in Paris by Derome, and Sir Joshua Reynolds' copy of Hall's Virgidemiarium. Among the items sold were two of particular interest to Sussex, one being the first edition of Leonard Mascall's Booke of the arte and Maner howe to plant and graffe all sorts of Trees, etc., 1572. Its author lived for many years at Plumpton Place, Sussex, and was regarded as being one of the authorities of his time on husbandry and rural pursuits. The other item was a copy of the first edition of Hurdis's Favourite Village (which as most people know is Bishopstone). This copy was bound in morocco and had a beautifully painted landscape and river scene on the fore-edges. There were a number of beautifully illustrated books, and a collection of Thomas Rowlandson's original drawings in colour for his English Dance of Death, and which, bound by Francis Bedford, sold for £385; two uncut copies of the first edition of the Dance of Death, his Loyal Volunteers of London, and the rarest of all his books, the Treatise on Modern Education 1802, also a copy of Lamb's Prince Dorus, 1811, with illustrations by Blake, which sold for £50. Several rare books on America included Price's Saul's Prohibition Staide 1609, Champlain's Voyages et Decouvertes 1627, and Hennepin's New Discovery of a vast Country. In November 1916 the third and most valuable portion of this library was disposed of. The sale of 364 lots realized £12,408 and was one of the most interesting of the year. Among the items was a very fine copy of the first edition of the Greek Homer printed by Demetrius Chalcondylas, at Florence in 1488, which was sold for £260; the Aldine Horace of 1501, £82 10s.; Sir Philip Sidney's Arcadia, 1590, £390, Spencer's Faerie Queene, 1590-1596, £195, the rare second edition of Bacon's Essaies, 1598, £250, the only other copy of this book offered for auction for some years being the Huth copy which sold for £200; the first edition on large paper of Ben Jonson's Workes, 1616, £175, the History of Prince Arthur and his Knights 1634, bound by Hering and formerly in the Beckford Collection, £75; Herrick's Hesperides, 1st. edition, 1648, £102; the first edition of Gray's Elegy, 1751, £480; the first issue of the first edition of Goldsmith's Traveller, 1764, of which only this and the Rowfant copies are known, £350; the Vicar of Wakefield, Salisbury, 1766 £145; the Kilmarnock Edition of Burns' Poems, 1786, £450; Shelley's Adonais, printed by Didot at Pisa in 1821, £299, his Queen Mab 1813, £116, Blake's Songs of Innocence 1789, £205; and first edition of Keats' Poems 1817 sold for £135, which was the same price as a similar copy sold for at the Huth Sale. Several fine Horae were also disposed of, and a fine collection of Black Letter broadside ballads. Many of the books had been bound by Francis Bedford, but there were bindings by Reynes, Clovis Eve, Padeloup, and Derome, also volumes that have formed part of the libraries of such famous collectors as D. Canevari, Count Hoym, Beckford, etc.

We now come to the last library on our list, to that of Mr. Charles Thomas-Stanford, M.P. for Brighton. Mr. Thomas-Stanford is not only a collector but also an author. His works include "Sussex in the Great Civil War," 1910, several books of travel and pamphlets of bibliographical interest and also a novel. As a collector he is most generous and is willing that his treasures may be shared not only by his friends but also by the general public. From time to time he has lent sections of his fine library for exhibition purposes to the Brighton Public Library. In 1907 he loaned over a hundred volumes of incunabula to that institution and followed it in 1908 by another exhibition so arranged as to show the history of book-binding and decoration from the fifteenth to the nineteenth centuries. Catalogues of both these exhibitions were published and to each of them their owner contributed an introduction of much interest. Mr. Thomas-Stanford's collection of incunabula contains about 220 examples, and is one of the largest private collections in the county. The books represent most of the important early presses of Germany, Italy, France, the Low Countries and Spain, and many of them have been acquired during travel in those countries. The early presses of Cologne are specially well represented; St. John Chrysostom Super psalmo quinquagesimo (Ulric Zell, about 1466-7) and Leonardo Bruni, de studiis et Uteris (Printer of Dictys, about 1470) may be noted as rare examples. Books printed by Schoeffer at Mainz, Mentelin at Strassburg, and the Zainers at Augsburg and Ulm naturally find a place; as does a fine example (from the Library of William Morris) of Retza, Comestorium vitiorum, (Sensenschmid, 1470) generally considered the first book printed at Nuremberg. A very fine example of the curious S. Augustine de comensu evangelistarum, printed in 1473 at Lauingen by (it is supposed) a wandering printer, in a stamped pigskin binding, probably executed in the monastery of Benedict-peuren, is not the least interesting of the German series. There are many examples of the earliest Roman and Venetian presses, including the charming little Bessarion, Orazioni, printed by Valdarfer at Venice in 1471. Many of the books are in their original bindings; some, such as a Lucan printed by Guerinus at Venice in 1477 and bound by Roger Payne (from the Wodhull library), exhibit the work of later binders of eminence—among several rare books printed in the Netherlands may be noted the splendid Boetius de Consolatione Philosophiae printed at Ghent by de Keyser in 1495; and there is a fine example of Spanish printing in Cuico libros de Seneca (Seville 1491). Mr. Thomas-Stanford possesses most of the early editions of Euclid in various languages from Ratdoldt's Latin edition (Venice 1482) to Dr. Dee's English version (London, John Day, 1570). He has not specially collected bookbindings but his library contains examples of the work of Clovis Eve and other celebrated binders, and books from such libraries as those of De Thou, Colbert, and Sir Robert Cotton.

Although we have come to an end of the libraries on our list we cannot close this article without reference to the great Huth Library, which, like the Lamport Library, has been indirectly connected with our county. Its founder, Henry Huth, died suddenly in London on December 10th, 1878, and was brought to Bolney in Sussex and buried in the church-yard there. Wykehurst Park in the parish of Bolney was built by him on the site of an old house, a few years prior to his death, and is now the property of his son Mr. Edward Huth, M.A., J.P.

This is but a cursory account of some of the chief book-lovers and their libraries connected with this county but one cannot but feel a thrill of pride that 'the south country' can claim association with such a goodly company, and hope that in the days ahead there may come others to uphold the traditions of their book-loving ancestors.

PRIDEAUX (Col. W. F.) Bibliography of the Works of Robert Louis Stevenson, Revised Edition, Edited and Supplemented by Mrs. Luther S. Livingston (Frank Hollings, 7 Great Turnstile, London, W.C., 12s. 6d. net.)

What a blessing to the book-world are the bibliographical enthusiasts! This was the first thought that occurred to me as I glanced at this beautifully-printed book; a volume, when we consider the loving labour spent upon it, the value of it to the enquirer, and the present cost of production, ridiculously cheap. First, of course, there is the late Colonel Prideaux's work upon it, which, as the editress says, "is monumental." Then, as she adds, "the aim has been to bring the Bibliography up-to-date, but to change Colonel Prideaux's work as little as possible." She then goes on to state that some errors in collation have been corrected, and a few notes, prices and location of copies which are constantly changing, and several facsimiles of title-pages which, no longer have priority, have been omitted to make room for new material. Several interesting discoveries have been made, among them being two editions of John Nicholson, earlier than the accepted 'American Series, No. 60'; the copyright editions of The Beach of Falesa and The Beach of Falesa with The Bottle Imp, the text of which the first American edition of Island Nights' Entertainments follows; the copyright edition, in three parts, of Weir of Hermiston; an earlier issue of Ticonderoga, and the first American edition, so long sought, of Macaire, a discovery of special interest to the American collector. This foretaste of the contents of the new edition is alone sufficient to make every collector, every librarian, and every bookseller rush for a copy while one is to be had, and it may be safely asserted that before long it will be out-of-print and selling at a much-advanced price. Mrs. Livingston states that much of her work has been based upon the Stevenson Collection of the late Mr. Harry Elkins Widener, to which it may be added that an admirable photogravure portrait of Stevenson forms a frontispiece to the volume; that there are six facsimiles of title-pages; and that the copious Index appears to be beyond reproach

(not necessarily bibliographical)

In this Part we have the record of a copy of Barnaby Rich's Allarme to England, 1578. The full title is as follows:—"Allarme to England, foreshewing what perilles are procured where the people live without regarde of Martiall Lawe. With a short Discourse conteynning the decay of Warlike Discipline, convenient to be perused by Gentlemen, such as are desirous by service to seeke their owne deserved prayse and the preservation of their Countrey." A book that would have commended itself to Lord Roberts when, before the war, he endeavoured, unsuccessfully, to wake up England to the German Peril and was called a scaremonger for his pains.

In connexion with the little Memoir of Mr. W. J. Leighton which appeared in Part I, the following extract from a letter received by me is one more tribute to his character:

His was indeed a personality that will be much missed. I entirely agree with one of the quotations which you make, where someone says that "he was Mr. Leighton's customer, but Mr. Leighton was his friend." That was the case with me. He had a transparent and childlike simplicity and a geniality which endeared him to all who came within his radius. His great erudition was only equalled by the modesty which always insisted on putting the person with whom he was conversing on an equality with himself. Many other and similar letters have reached me, but the above sums up Mr. Leighton's qualities completely. I may add that by a slip of the pen, while writing under stress of time, the lines quoted in the Memoir:

To live in hearts we leave behind

Is not to die.

were attributed to George Eliot. A subscriber has kindly drawn my attention to the fact that they were written by Campbell. It shows how necessary it always is to verify one's references.

Booksellers should refer to the record of a copy of Egan's Life in London on page 190 of this Part. The note should be copied and be pasted in Mr. Cohn's Cruikshank Bibliography, at pages 74-75.

Over and over again Real Life in London is being catalogued by those who should know better as being by Pierce Egan. As I stated, more than ten years ago, the Real Life was an imitation of the Simon Pure, and its publication was instigated by the success of the latter. Honest tradesmen who take a bad coin nail it to the counter, and the misrepresentation as to the authorship of the Real Life in London deserves similar treatment. It is the old tale about giving a lie twenty-four hours' start and never being able to catch it up.

On Nov. 7, 1916, Fielding's Don Quixote in England, 1754, was described in the sale-catalogue as being the first edition, and was recorded on page 59 of vol. 14 of B. A. R. The first edition was really issued in 1733, and is duly recorded in Baker's Biographia Dramatica. The work not being in Lowndes the cataloguer evidently jumped to conclusions without consulting Baker. The error can easily be remedied by crossing out "1st. edn." with a pen. But I do wish cataloguers would not jump to conclusions.

On page 541 of vol. 14 of B.A.R. a copy of Thackeray's The Snob is recorded. The catalogue stated that it contained Nos. 1 to 6 and 9 to 11. I am informed that this was an error, as Nos. 1-2 were missing.

A Bargain Catalogue of Books for Readers and Collectors of All Tastes, 1548 items, including many Association Books, First Editions, Presentation Copies, Sport, Travel, etc. Mr. Hollings has adopted the system of abbreviations used in B. A. R., thereby obtaining a much larger selection of books than otherwise possible in a catalogue of its size.

— Myers & Co., 59 High Holborn, W. C. 1. No. 218. Illustrated Catalogue of Rare Books, including The Famous XVth Century Block-Book of the Apocalypse, Fine Illuminated Manuscripts, The Breydenbach of 1486 and other very rare Incunabula from Celebrated Presses, Littleton's Tenures printed by R. Pynson, York and Sarum Psalter, 1522, Sarum Horae, 1524, and other Early Printed and Black Letter Books, Daniel's Civil Wars, 1595, and his Tethys Festival, 1610, Shakespeariana, numerous Early Works on Gardening, etc., Americana, Coloured Plate Books, Canadian, Chinese, and Emblematic Drawings, The Remarkable Sets of Byron, Crabbe, D'Eon, Garrick, and Sheridan, Grangerized by A. M. Broadley, Autograph Letters, Mezzotint Portraits, etc., etc., 223 items. It is impossible to do justice to this fine catalogue in a notice here. It is essentially a collector's catalogue. Among the Americana may be mentioned Hartlib's Reformed Commonwealth of Bees, 1655, £52 10s., and a remarkable Collection of 27 Annual Sermons preached before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, 1708-1822, affording an almost complete history of religion and education in New England, etc., in fine state, £85. The Apocalypse of St. John, 1430-50, is the rarest item, and is priced £1750. Choice Illuminated Manuscripts, Extra-Illustrated Books, rare examples of Early Printing, Chinese Drawings, Old Herbals, Rare English Literature, etc., add to the interest of the catalogue. Perhaps the greatest curiosity is an autograph letter by William Wilson, one of the actors of Shakespeare's Company at the Fortune Theatre, dated 1617, and addressed to Edward Alleyn, the actor and builder of the Fortune, as well as Founder of Dulwich College. For this £75 is asked. There are numerous facsimiles of illuminations, bindings, autographs, etc.

London. Henry Sotheran & Co., 140 Strand, W. C.2. Catalogue of Rare and Standard Books on Exact and Applied Science, including the Scientific Portion of the Library of the late Rt. Hon. Sir. James Stirling, F.R.S., Lord Justice of Appeal, and selections from those of George Rennie, C.E., F.R.S., (1791-1866), Samuel Roberts, F.R.S., sometime President of the London Mathematical Society, and of some other well-known Scientists; 3883 items. A catalogue of immense value to those interested in science, arranged in the following order:—I. Sets of the Learned Societies' Proceedings, and other Scientific Journals; II. General and Collected Works; III. Mathematics; IV. Astronomy and Geodesy; V. Physics; VI.; Meteorology and Physical Geography; VII. Chemistry; VIII. Crystallography; IX. Chemical Technology, including Photography; X. Mining and Metallurgy; XI. Engineering; XII. Seamanship and Airmanship. Naval Architecture; XIII. Addenda. In addition to the most up-to-date works there are numerous early editions, in all languages, from the first edition of Euclid, (Venice, 1482), through the 16th, 17th, and 18th. centuries, many being old English works of great rarity.

Norwich. W. P. Flavell, 8 St. Gregory's. No. 26. A List of Rare and Valuable Books, in good condition; 247 items, including Gilbert A'Beckett's rare Comic Nursery Tales, £4 10s.; Johnson's History of Pyrates, 1724, £5 10s.; Topsell's Historie of Four-footed Beastes, 1607, £7; Dr. Johnson's Dictionary first edition; Biography, Philosophy, Poetry, Occult, Topography, Norfolk, Theology and Mysticism.

— Henry E. Humphris, "Borrow's Head," 77 St. Giles' Street. Catalogue of Recent Purchases of New and Old Books, 420 items, of General Literature and Norfolk Books. One item is the Original Manuscript of A Walk through Wales in August, 1797, by the Rev. Richard Warner, whose many valuable topographical works are well-known. It has a water-colour drawing of Tintern Abbey and plans of the route, in fine state, bound in old tree calf extra, yellow edges, price £6 6s.

Wrexham. Crowe's, 2-3 Bank Street. Celtic Book List. No. 81. A Catalogue of Miscellaneous English, Theological and Welsh Books, 494 items, including Magna Charta, 1618; Garrick's copy of Powell's History of Wales, 1774; Wood's Views of the Rivers of Wales, 1813; etc.

OVERSEAS

Amsterdam. R. W. P. De Vries, Singel 146. Bulletin de Livres, Anciens et Modernes. BROKEN ARCS

By ARCHIBALD SPARKE, F.R.S.L.

Chief Librarian, Bolton Public Libraries

"BROKEN ARCS."—Browning's phrase is one which applies with singular appropriateness to the lives of those unhappy men and women of genius with whom this brief essay is concerned. Their promise, brilliant though it was, never attained its full perfection. Trouble, ill-health, dissipation, or domestic misfortune marred their genius and dimmed their creative faculties even where it did not actually put a period to their lives. Yet, even so, the amount of performance which stands to their account is sufficient to suggest what might have been the full beauty of the "perfect round" whereof we only see the "broken arc."

In some instances, of course, the seeming unkindness of fate has (paradoxically) been one of the factors which has earned its victims an enduring fame. There is in an author's one brilliant book, a poet's one beautiful creation, something which never fails to appeal to the speculative faculty which is present in most people's minds. "If a man could write so finely before attaining maturity how would he not have written had his genius reached its full perfection?"—such is the thought which comes readily to the mind of anyone reading, for example, those fine sonnets of Rupert Brooke's on his "Old Vicarage, Grandchester:—"

"Oh, is the water sweet and cool,
Gentle and brown, above the pool?
And laughs the immortal river still
Under the mill, under the mill?"

In the majority of cases, too, there is no reason why the thought should be questioned. Take, for instance, Brooke himself—his work had already showed a steady development both in conception and in execution, from his earliest published efforts to its culmination in the war sonnets. It may be considered as fairly certain that he would have continued so to develop and improve, yet, even so, would his work ever have taken his countrymen's hearts by storm as it has done, without the added touch of human interest given by his early and pathetic end? Take again, the well-known example of Emily Brontë, "Wuthering Heights" remains for all time as the one amazing outcrop of her genius, a few short lyrics excepted. Would she have repeated, or even excelled that astonishing performance? Who can tell, who even guess? So it is with many of those authors of whose lives and talents a brief consideration follows.

A case in point is the life of Chatterton, the "marvellous boy," whose strange career of literary deception is one of the most interesting psychological phenomena in the history of literature. How much of the imaginative fabric which he built up around the personality—also entirely fanciful—of Thomas Rowley, parish priest of St. John's, Bristol, was sheer deliberate forgery, and how much arose from a peculiar faculty for self-deception, no one can with certainty know. To children their make-believe is absolutely real, more real than the actual world around them: and it is possible that Chatterton, himself little more than a child, and gifted too with the perpetual childlikeness which so often accompanies imaginative genius, all but lost the faculty of distinguishing false from true. Steeped as he was in the atmosphere of antiquity through his youthful lingerings in the Church of St. Mary Redcliffe in his native town, he early began to build up a mental picture of 15th Century Bristol, peopled in part by historical personages, in part by the creatures of his fancy. In 1764 he produced his first "forged antiques," a coat of arms, a pedigree and a number of poems, all of which were accepted without hesitation by the person to whom they were offered. Later efforts met with equal success, and then came the famous "Rowley-Poems," ascribed to the priest Rowley already referred to, and written throughout in a sham archaic diction. Walpole, whose patronage he had endeavoured to obtain, was advised by his friends that the poems were modern forgeries, and in 1770 Chatterton (having left Bristol to court fame in London) gave up the unequal struggle against starvation and committed suicide by taking poison at the age of 17. His poems are interesting examples of the work of a precocious genius, but intrinsically their value is questionable.

It is hardly necessary to do more than refer here to the short lives and brilliant gifts of those two poets whose sad life story is their only quality in common—Keats and Edgar Allan Poe. Present-day judgment is inclined to modify the strictures passed upon Keats' critics by Shelley and other contemporaries, as regards their effect upon the poet's health. Modern knowledge of consumption and its causes discounts the idea that the disease could be caused or even greatly accelerated by distress of mind, and it is likely enough that all the praise in the world would not have kept John Keats alive to write another "Endymion." It is undeniable that most authors desire popularity, and that the failure to attain it is very bitter to them. George Meredith's letters contain some pertinent references to this question: "Never mind," (he writes to a friend) "if we can but get the public ear—oh, my dear old boy!" And again, referring to the vast sum paid to George Eliot by "Cornhill" for one of her novels, "Bon Dieu! Will aught like this ever happen to me?" In another letter he wrote more fully on the subject: "As I am unpopular I am ill-paid, and therefore bound to work double tides, hardly ever able to lay down the pen. This affects my weakened stomach, and so the vicious circle is looped." There could be no more lucid example of the process of action and reaction, cause and effect, which is at the root of most literary tragedies.

Edgar Allan Poe's astonishing, if hectic, genius is at once the child and the victim of his weaknesses. While yet a mere child he wrote the wonderful lyric—"To Helen"—which contains two lines which have become indissolubly a part of the language,

"The glory that was Greece,
And the grandeur that was Rome."

His later work became more and more a reflex of his drug-tainted and feverish fancy, even while it increased in power and technical skill. Its haunting music is such melody as is heard in dreams, the same weird and wonderful strain that rings in "Kubla Khan" and "The Ancient Mariner."

Coleridge's intemperance is matter of common knowledge: but while his own magnificent gifts rose superior even to this handicap, in the case of Hartley Coleridge it was responsible—in conjunction with the super-sensitiveness so often the bane of men of literary genius—for a blighted and embittered career. His early promise—as indicated in his father's letters—was great; but a disappointment in the form of failure to win the Newdigate Prize for English Verse caused him to turn to drink for comfort, and the habit never left him. It was the reason for his loss of an Oxford Fellowship which would have placed him beyond the reach of anxiety, and this second blow confirmed the effect of the earlier disappointment. Thereafter his life is a melancholy story of intemperance and failing powers, and had he been gifted with a greater capacity for self-control he might well have added more lasting fame to the illustrious name he bore. As it is, only a few fragments have been preserved from oblivion, the best known of which is the beautiful poem, "She is not fair to outward view," which is included in most standard anthologies.

Few poets could with greater truth be termed children of adversity than Francis Thompson. Born in Preston in 1859, he went to study medicine at Owens College, Manchester; but his studies were soon broken off, and he tramped to London in search of a livelihood. At this time he had no thought of a literary career. He knocked about from one precarious occupation to another, one of his jobs being as a sort of shop-boy, and in that calling he distinguished himself by dropping the shutters upon a customer's foot and so earned summary dismissal. During these years of poverty and hardship were sown in all probability the seeds of the ill-health which brought about Thompson's premature death in 1907 : and had it not been for the devoted friendship of Wilfrid and Alice Meynell, who took the poet into their home literally from the gutter, it is likely enough that little of his work would ever have seen the light. The Meynells were friends in a thousand. They sheltered the poet to the end of his life, cared for him, provided for him, and bore with his eccentricities, as Mrs. Katharine Tynan Hinkson described in her recently published reminiscences.

The vicissitudes of Francis Thompson's life are no doubt responsible for the comparatively small amount of his literary output. But that output includes some of the finest religious poetry of this or of any age. "The Hound of Heaven," it has been truly said, "marked the return of the nineteenth Century to Thomas a Kempis." "The great poetry of it," says Wilfrid Meynell, "transcended, in itself and in its influence, all conventions ; so that it won the love of a Catholic Mystic like Coventry Patmore ; was included by Dean Beeching in his Lyra Sacra among its older high compeers ; and gave new heart to quite another manner of man, Edward Burne-Jones." Crashaw and George Herbert are the only religious poets with whom Francis Thompson can be compared. The tremendous imagery, the fervour of devotion, the wealth of beautiful words in which "The Hound of Heaven" abounds demand for it a place apart : and in these days of war it has surely a special appeal in its magnificent close :—

" All which I took from thee I did but take,
Not for thy harms,
But just that thou might'st seek it in My arms.
All which thy child's mistake
Fancies as lost, I have stored for thee at home :
Rise, clasp My hand, and come."

Less well-known, but little less beautiful, are the verses which ought to find a place in every anthology of London :—

" The angels keep their ancient places ;
Turn but a stone and start a wing !
'Tis ye, 'tis your estranged faces,
That miss the many-splendoured thing.

But (when so sad thou canst not sadden)
Cry ;—and upon thy so sore loss
Shall shine the traffic of Jacob's ladder
Pitched between Heaven and Charing Cross.

'Yea, in the night, my Soul, my daughter,
Cry,—clinging Heaven by the hems ;
And lo, Christ walking on the water
Not of Genesareth, but Thames."

A sadder life-story, because containing less fulfilment of promise, is that of Ernest Dowson. Dowson's work, although it has been highly appreciated in literary circles and amongst students of poetry, has never really reached the general public, nor is it likely to do so, for it lacks the qualities of broad human sympathy so necessary for such an appeal. His genius had perhaps more kinship with that of Swinburne than of any other contemporary writer whose name comes to mind. He was of the School of Verlaine, glorifying melancholy and passion, and worshipping abstract beauty as a goddess. His technique was admirable, and his faults—if faults they must be termed—were in no sense part of a pose as they are in so many of the disciples of the same School.

Dowson's short life—he was thirty-three when he died—was a singularly unhappy one. He left Queen's College, Oxford, in 1887 (like so many literary men, without taking a Degree), and went to London ; but he was already a victim of ill-health, and in fact a dying man. A morbid reticence prevented him from accepting help from relatives and friends, and as his disease advanced he hid himself away in miserable lodgings, refusing medical attendance and literally starving himself to death. A friend found him at last in a wine shop, in a terrible state of health and all but destitute : and, although himself in financial difficulties, took Dowson under his care and nursed him in his own rooms during the last six weeks of his life. It is said that a hopeless love was the beginning of Dowson's misfortunes. Drink and drugs soon had the inevitable effect upon a sensitive and not too-well balanced mind, with the result already indicated. Some of his poems still enjoy a certain vogue among admirers of his School, notably that beginning : " I have been faithful to you, Cynara, in my fashion," which has been quoted in more than one modern novel.

Promise of great things, with some considerable measure of fulfilment, is to be found in the literary remains of Lionel Johnson, whose early death removed one of the most original of modern poets when his career was but just begun. Johnson's austere and restrained manner differs as much from Dowson's feverish passion as the Norman arch from that of the Decorated period. His technique was faultless, and some at least of his lyrics will certainly pass the test of time with success. " By the Statue of King Charles at Charing Cross " is perhaps the finest thing he wrote :—

" Alone he rides, alone,
The fair and fatal King :
Dark night is all his own,
That strange and solemn thing.

Which are more full of fate :
The stars, or those sad eyes ?
Which are more still and great :
Those brows, or the dark skies ? "

Johnson's end was a singularly sad one. He fell backwards off a high stool by a bar counter, and, being found to be seriously injured, was removed to hospital, where he died very shortly afterwards. Under ordinary circumstances the accident would not have been serious, for the fall was not violent, and the floor was thickly carpeted ; but it was discovered after death that the poet's skull was remarkably fragile, being indeed no thicker than that of a young child, and had been completely shattered by the fall.

Such are a few characteristic examples of the " broken arcs " of genius. Many others come readily to memory—John Davidson, whom disappointment and anxiety led to self-destruction—Robert Buchanan, whose life was embittered by ill-health and early struggles—and a host of others, whose misfortunes and early death must be ascribed either to chance or their own fault ; sometimes to sheer failure to attain that popularity which most writers in some measure desire. To some the success of which they dreamed has indeed come, although too late to benefit them. George Gissing, for instance, has been widely recognised since his death, like the American author, " O. Henry," whose remarkable popularity on both sides of the Atlantic has been one of the most surprising of recent literary phenomena.

The early dead whose death was the sum of their tragedy, occupy another shrine in the Temple of Fame, among such—many of them victims of the war—are to be remembered—as well as Rupert Brooke—James Elroy Flecker, Edward Thomas, Julian Grenfell, H. N. Dickinson (Author of " Keddy ") and Francis Ledwidge, the Irish peasant poet, whose published work showed him to be a notable star on the literary horizon. Sad—yet in a sense not wholly so ! Of them it may be said, in the words of Laurence Binyon, " they shall not grow old as we that are left grow old." Their lot is like that of Housman's " Athlete dying young," in " A Shropshire Lad," who

" wears unwithered in his curls
The garland briefer than a girl's."

" Broken arcs " like the others—but their incompleteness only arouses the inevitable sense of regret in the presence of a beautiful thing unfinished.

COLLOQUIALISMS

(not necessarily bibliographical)

Abelard. Letters of Abelard and Heloise, 1815. See the record of a copy at page 269 of this Part. The note should be added to the entry of the edition of 1818 on page 124 of Mr. Cohn's Cruikshank Bibliography.

Under 'Thersytes' in this Part is the record of the sale of a copy of A New Enterlude called Thersytes, c. 1550. The Times Literary Supplement, July 18, 1918, contains a letter by Mr. Alfred W. Pollard, in which he states that Thersytes is "the earliest English play which can be shown to have been acted at Oxford," yet, that there is no copy of it in the Bodleian although two copies are in the United States. The inference is that the copy now recorded should be secured for the Bodleian while there is yet time, since these three copies are all that are known to exist.

The following appeared in The Times of May 27th. last. On the next day The Times announced that the poem, or whatever you choose to term it, was a forgery. Forty or fifty years hence some literary resurrectionist will be reprinting it as being by Mr. Kipling, so it is well that it should be gibbeted in a publication which is to be found permanently on the shelves of almost every public library of importance throughout the world :

THE OLD VOLUNTEER

I can hear the bugle calling
And it don't want me
While the superannuation-chap
O' Germany
'S a-fighting for the Kaiser in
His Fatherland ;
But our order's for the young uns
O' the old Brass-Band.

We were ready in the 'nineties
When the call rang-clear
For the yeoman and the gentleman
To volunteer,
Awaiting for the enemy
On nine days' drill ;
But the Army wants recruits,
Not the old Free-Will.

We can stay a long duration,
Though the doctor said
How "'The Office' would be worried when
You drop down dead" ;
But there'll be a better Judgment for
The Last Relay :
I shall hear the bugle calling,
And I'll march that Day.

RUDYARD KIPLING.

There is nothing for The Times to be ashamed of in being taken-in with this fabrication. It is just a "lark" by some clever brain, equal in power to that of the supposed author, but, at present, lacking his reputation.

If you should ever happen to refer to a catalogue-description of a "lot" recorded in B. A. R., and should find that it omits details which may appear to be, to the uninstructed eye, important, you may be sure that the said details do not affect the commercial value of the "lot." It is necessary to remember this as, if you referred to the catalogue you might think that I had been careless, or, otherwise, that I had been saving my own time, and the cost of the printers' bill, in the production of B. A. R. Neither of which will happen as long as I edit it.

In answer to an appeal for more books for the War Library I offered 80 copies of my compilation of extracts from the works of Mortimer Collins, entitled Attic Salt, and they were accepted. A month ago a private soldier in France wrote asking its price, and whether two copies could be sent to friends of his here. Fortunately I had kept ten copies for myself, and I replied that he could have two. He remitted the amount and the copies were sent. In his letter he said:—

I should like to say a word of appreciation for Attic Salt. It is evidently one of the copies of your recent gift that I have had the great pleasure of reading through three times. Several of our fellows have also read it and remarked upon the excellent quality of the verse. I assure you such a wonderful collection of beautiful thoughts, expressed so perfectly in prose and verse, gives great consolation to one on Active Service. I cannot help thinking what a vast difference it would make in the progress of humanity if Attic Salt and all such works were read instead of the tremendous quantity of abominable trash that finds its way to the libraries of the British Army in the Field.

I only wish Mortimer Collins were alive to read this tribute to his words of wisdom.

The following are two extracts from Attic Salt, and were written about fifty years ago. They are suggestive at the present time, when we are beginning to think about a League of Nations:

Brassey, I believe, was the man who wanted the Government, during the Crimean War, to contract for taking Sebastopol, and expressed a willingness to make a tender. The idea is not bad. Perhaps, if war were to become a matter of commerce, contracted for by engineering firms, the false glory which transforms a butcher of men into a hero would disappear. Instead of a splendid army of red-coated, white-plumed soldiers, Messrs. Poliorcetes and Co., would send out stalwart black-visaged navvies, mighty eaters of beef and drinkers of beer. You can't write epics and lyrics about fellows of that sort, who destroy cities as a matter of business. I venture to think that if the great engineering firms could take war into their hands, and make it a department of their trade, it would be a universal blessing. You have only to make people understand that a soldier is a hired murderer to get rid of him altogether.

War, in fact, is becoming contemptible, and ought to be put down by the great nations of Europe, just as we put down a vulgar riot. Agincourt was as much greater than Balaclava as Drayton than Tennyson.

It is almost needless to add that when Mortimer Collins called a soldier a hired murderer he did not have in mind the present war, when the fighting men are but citizens in khaki. He would, in fact, have been one of the first to sing the praises of our glorious army. What he did see was that war was already becoming a matter not so much of personal prowess as of possessing and manipulating murderous machinery.

Some misprints are funny. The latest is Thackeray's Book of Sybels instead of Thackeray's Book of Snobs. It was in one of our trade-journals. Evidently the man who wrote the line was a bad writer, and the poor devil of a compositor, not being a literary man, did his best. Occasionally I get a letter which is almost impossible to decipher, even when turned upside down to see if the man wrote it that way. Why persons who write illegibly don't buy a typewriter passes comprehension. They ought to be charged double subscription for any publication they take.

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

Bath. George Gregory, 5 Argyle Street. Nos. 248-249. "The Literary Vademecum, or Catalogue of Second-hand Books, in all classes, including Recent Purchases from the Broadley, George Dunn, Bosworth Park, Rickmansworth Park, and other Libraries, on sale at the World's Book Stores. "No trade with the outcast Race of Huns for 100 Years." 669 items. This fine catalogue contains so many important entries that it is impossible to particularize. The reproduction of its Index must suffice:—Annual Register 148 vols; Architectural; Art and Painting and Black's Colour Books; Bath and Somerset; Bibles—"The Great"; Bibles—Mathew's; Bibles—The Bishop's; Boccaccio, Decameron; Burlington Fine Arts Club; Cathedral, Col. Aquatints; Civil Engineers, 150 vols.; Cruikshank; Diligence and Dissipation, 10 plates; Dryden, Abdolon and Achitophel; Gentleman's Magazine, 154 vols.; Green's Tin Trade; Hakluyt Society; Illuminated MS.; Illuminated Horae; Illuminated Officium; Lambeth Collection; Lever's Works, 39 vols.; Longevity; Illustrated London News, 273 vols.; Magazines and Journals; Manuscripts; Meux Manuscripts; Morrison Autographs; Musée Français, 6 vols.; Nattes' Bath; Natural History Cabinet and Specimens; Naval Chronicle, 40 vols.; Nichols' Literary Anecdotes, 16 vols.; Oxford Almanacs; Perrol and Chipier, 12 vols.; Photographic Views; 'Punch,' Set and Runs; Pyne's Royal Residences; Rowlandson; Royal Collection; Sowerby's Botany, 40 vols.; Scott's Works, 100 vols.; Secret Court Memoirs, 20 vols.; Seelen Wurtz-Garten; Siddons Letter, etc.; Spalding Club; Stultifera Navis; Sweden; Thackeray Works, Ed. de Luxe; Tod's Rajast'han. Mr. Gregory has the courage of his opinions—a highly meritorious quality—and, in a series of headlines throughout the catalogue he recounts the Kaiser's crimes in forcible language.

Bristol. William George's Sons, 89 Park Street. Library Supply Lists, No. 361. A Record of some War-time Buyings from Various Sources, 796 items, including History of the Reign of James II., by Fox, 1808, Large Paper, 2 vols., 4to., with upwards of 230 choice extra illustrations, done at the time of publication, £55; Military; scarce Quaker Books; Bristol Bibliography, by the City Librarian, etc., etc.

Barker, Esq., and other sources, with a few Etchings and Engravings, 932 items, including the De Civitate Dei, of S. Augustine, 1475, £8 8s.; Drayton's Poly-olbion, 1613-22, £7 10s.; a Collection of publications relating to India, formed by Sir Richard Temple, 37 vols., £10 10s.; Ein Christliche Warnung, with Martin Luther's autograph, 1526, £5 5s.; Cruikshank Books, Drama, Spiritualism, etc., etc.

Guildford. Thomas Thorp, 109 & 110 High Street. No. 316; Catalogue of an Important Collection of Recently-Purchased Second-hand Books, 1528 items, including a Collection of Books on India and the East, a Library of Chemical Books, and a Collection of Books on Heraldry. A complete set of the Alpine Journal is offered for £27 10s.; a book from the library of Queen Anne, £25; Ryff's Herbal, 1573, £9 10s.; Orme's Views in Hindostan, coloured, £12 10s.; Lord Lilford's Birds of the British Islands, first edition, £60; a presentation copy of Ruskin's Poems, the rare first edition, 1850, £30; an Heraldic Binding from the library of Louis XIII.; early editions of Tennyson's Poems, with altered readings in the poet's autograph, £30; Scott's Waverley, first edition, £22 10s.; two rare Stevensons, first editions, viz. Prince Otto, £12 12s. and Travels with a Donkey, £14 15s. A very attractive catalogue.

London. Thomas Baker, 72 Newman Street, W. 1. No. 652. A List of Catholic Books published by T. Baker, 26 items. Also, No. 654G. Catalogue of Books, Chiefly Theological and Classical, Historical and Antiquarian (English and Foreign); 839 items, including the Acta Sanctorum Ordinis S. Benedicti, 1733, £40; Despont's Bibliotheca Maxima veterum patrum, 30 vols, 1677-1707, £18 18s.; O' Hanlon's Lives of the Irish Saints, £6 15s.; Palestine Survey, 14 vols., £21; the Sutherland copy of Sir Henry Spelman's Works, 1639-1727 £10 10s.; editions from the 16th. century to the present day, etc.

— P. J. & A. E. Dobell, 77 Charing Cross Road, W.C. 2. The Literature of the Restoration, being a Collection of the Poetical and Dramatic Literature between 1660 and 1700, with particular reference to the Works of John Dryden, described and annotated by Percy J. Dobell; 1287 items. It is delightful when one meets with a bookseller who is not merely a seller of books, but who is fond of literature and has taken to bookselling for that reason. This is evidently the case with Mr. Dobell, whereby he is treading in the footsteps of his late esteemed father. For here is a catalogue which is something more than a catalogue from the bibliophile's point of view. In Mr. Dobell's own words, "it is chock-full of new bibliographical information," and I know that he thoroughly enjoyed doing the work. It is a catalogue for the buyer to select from and afterwards to place among his works of reference. From such a mass of interesting matter it is difficult to select, for only a few examples can be found room for; but let us browse. The arrangement of the catalogue is as follows. Poems and Plays arranged alphabetically under Authors' names. Anonymous Poems chronologically arranged. Undated Anonymous Poems, alphabetically arranged. Anonymous Plays. Poems on the Death of Queen Mary. Hill's Cheap Press. Dryden's (otherwise Tonson's) Miscellany Volumes. Poems on Affairs of State. Books of Composite Authorship. Manuscripts. Portraits of Dryden. The contents include Tonson's original accounts with Dryden, relative to Dryden's translation of Virgil, £40; the Dryden books are 168 in number and include first editions of a large number of his separate works. In one case it is pointed out that what has hitherto been credited with being the first edition is not so, being a proof of the honesty with which the cataloguing was done. A unique copy of Andrew Marvell's Miscellaneous Poems, 1681, is priced £275. All other known copies collate irregularly, and appear to be imperfect. It is now evident that suppressions were made while the book was in the press. The missing leaves of the ordinary copies appear in this one, and there is little doubt that the suppressions were made for political reasons. The manuscripts include the song in Davenant's version of Macbeth, and a volume of satirical and other poems of the time of James II., and William and Mary, only 12 of the poems being traced in print. Among the authors catalogued are Mrs. Behn, Brome, Butler, Cibber, Congreve, Cowley, Crowne, Davenant, Durfey, (with an early edition of his famous Pills), Ætheredge, Farquhar, Killigrew, Nat Lee, Otway, Prior, Rowe, Sedley, Shadwell, Southerne, Tate and Vanbrugh. It is impossible to mention much more that ought to be mentioned, but it is a catalogue which should be got by every student of the period of literature with which it deals.

— Francis Edwards, 83 High Street, Marylebone, W. 1. Catalogue of New Books and Publications, including Publishers' Reminders at Low Prices; Maclehose's Reprints of Rare Voyages and Travels, Shakespeare's England, Book-Plate Monographs, Folkard's Sailing Boat, Koebel's Argentina, etc. Among the more important items is John S. Farmer's collotype reproductions of Old English Plays, 152 vols., issued at 230 guineas and offered for £50; Maudslay's Biologia Centrali Americana, £20; and the Wollaston Expedition to New Guinea, £10.

— Thomas Thorp, 93 St. Martin's Lane, W.C. 2. No. 83. Catalogue of Second-hand Books, including many First Editions of Modern Authors; Important Art Books; a long run of Sir Richard Burton's Works; Books of London Topography, etc., followed by a Collection relating to Shakespeare and the Drama, some Works of Political Interest, Biographies, etc., with an Addenda of latest Purchases, including a Collection of Alpine Books; 1502 items. Some Old-Time Bookselling and Printing Ballads

By C. EDGAR THOMAS
(Sub-Librarian, Sion College)

THE Ballads of old-time "Merrie England" are essentially part and parcel of our national institutions, and it is probable that the jests and humorous songs that our forefathers were wont to indulge in are more varied than those of any other nation. Lacking to a greater or lesser degree the refinement of the present age, many of these quaint songs and ballads cannot now be reproduced, but if somewhat broad in treatment their humour was none the less honest, while they are especially valuable as reflecting to a very great extent the conditions of life in those olden times.

Again, many of the poems are of the epigrammatic variety—the term 'epigram' originally meant and was applied to anything that was virtually inscribed, as on a stone or monument, but with the lapse of time the term became wide enough to include a multitude of little poems. Thus from adhering strictly to the terms of its Greek etymology, i.e., an actual inscription, it has since been applied to verses, especially those affecting the terseness of an inscription, and also to the little poem, ending in a point, particularly of the satirical order.

Practically all trades and professions have in the past been assailed by the balladmonger and epigram writer, while with subjects so absolutely diversified in their history and antiquity it naturally follows that the old-world quips and ballads written round the Bookshop and Printing-press should breathe the very spirit of true romance, recounting as they do, in verse of varying quality, a hundred different aspects of these ancient and honoured callings.

In the year 1696 there appeared at York a small quarto volume entitled "Pecuniae Obediunt Omnia Money does master all things: a Poem shewing the power and influence of Money over all Arts, Sciences, Trades, Professions and ways of Living in this Sublunary World." It was printed by John White "for the Author" and was sold by Thomas Baxter, Bookseller, in Peter Gate, York. Although the title-page described the book as a poem, it was in reality a collection of characters written in verse and arranged under headings. The author has been successful in preserving his anonymity, and the little book is now a somewhat scarce item. From it, three quotations are worth reproducing, the first of which is headed "On Booksellers."

The Book-seller, for ready cash will sell
For as much profit as another will;
But then you must take special care and look,
You no new title have to an old book,
For they new title-pages often paist
Unto a book, which purposely is plac'd,
Setting it forth to be th' Second Edition,
The Third, or Fourth, with 'mendments and addition.
But when you come for to peruse and look,
You will not find one word in all the book,
Put either in or out, or yet amended,
For that's a thing which never was intended
By th' authour; but when e'er a book doth fail
This is their trick to quicken up the sale.
But when a New Edition comes indeed,
From all the old books which they have, with speed
The title-pages oft pluck out and tear,
And new ones in their places fixed are,
And have the confidence to put to sale
Such books for new, they know are old and stale
And so the buyer, if he don't descry,
Will have a cheat put on him purposely,
And when an authour's books do bravely sell,
As those of th' Whole Duty of Man, do well,

And others, then to gain a book a fame,
 They'll set it forth under such authour's name ;
 Prefixing an epistle to such tract,
 Declaring to the reader, matter of fact,
 How and by whom, the same was brought to light,
 And who hath had the view thereof, and sight ;
 How worthy the same book is of the press,
 And reasons why it's publisht in such a dress,
 With bantering stuff to make the copy sell,
 Which pollicies they think, do wondrous well.
 But those Grand Booksellers are much to blame,
 When a good authour's dead, t' abuse his name ;
 Such tricks they play, and act without controll,
 For money's sake, there's some would pawn their soul.
 If you vendible books cull out, by such
 You may suppose you cannot then lose much ;
 But you're deceived, for if you come to try
 And put them off, you'll find them very shie,
 And nice ; they'll say, though at first coming forth,
 These books sold well, yet now they're little worth ;
 So money to disburse they have no mind,
 'Cause when to get it in they do not find :
 But after much ado, you may contrive
 For twenty pounds laid out to get in five,
 And this they'll tell you meerly is to show
 What favour and respect they have for you.
 If you'll exchange for other books, say they,
 We can afford you then some better pay ;
 Ten pounds in truck they will pretend is given,
 When as the books you get are scarce worth seven ;
 If to be bookly given be your fate,
 You'd need to have a plentiful estate,
 For when the itch of buying books grows strong,
 Then you a prey to th' Bookseller ere long
 Become ; he'll send you books and trust so much
 Until he find you fail for to keep touch ;
 Then for his money he will call amain,
 And if you pay but half, he gets good gain,
 His books are so high pricest (priced) ; but all or none.
 That is the only string he plays upon ;
 He'll take no books again in part, O Curse !
 He must have ready money in his purse ;
 And thus by him you're always kept in awe,
 By constant dunning, and threats of the law.
 When an author doth to the Book-seller bring
 A copy for the press, altho' the thing
 He knows will sell, yet he'll pretend and say,
 Paper is dear, and trading doth decay,
 Money is scarce, and lycencing is dear ;
 So if he buy the copy, he's in fear
 To lose by th' bargain ; yet at length he'll come,
 And condescend to give you some small summe,
 In part of which, a parcel you must have
 Of books, at his own price, and thus you slave
 Yourself, beating your brains, and taking pains,
 And this same greedy leech sucks up the gains ;
 He's so in love with money, that he'd starve
 Authour and printer too : if he can serve
 But his own ends, and all the profit get,
 He does not care how meanly they do sit :
 Money's the she he courts, the only Miss,
 In her does centre all his happiness.

Bad as the bookseller of that time is painted, there is some slight consolation in reflecting that the printer fares but little better, for his reputed misdeeds are discounted in a few short lines. They run :

The Printer will for money hazard fate,
Print scurrilous pamphlets against the state ;
Or any dangerous unlycenc'd thing,
Which may, Life and Estate, in danger bring :
Such is the power of Money every where
That men regardless are of shame and fear,
Nothing's too dear for her to get at stake
That all this hurry in the world do's make,

The minor branch of the Bookselling fraternity—the travelling Petty Booksellers—also did not escape the satirical pen of this XVIIth century writer, as witness :

The Petty Bibliopoll hath Hystories,
And some small Books of severall Mistories,
Primers, Psalters, Bibles on his stall,
Logistories and Books Protrectical,
Such as he thinks are for the people's use
And his small library doth then produce,
He them in order viewly sets to th' eye,
Hopeing they'll tempt some lookers-on to buy,
He money wants, nought has such charms as she,
For her he'l part with his whole Library.

Among a collection of " One Hundred and Eighty Loyal Songs, all written since 1678, and intermixed with several new Love Songs " we find the following interesting " New Song, in praise of the Loyal Company of Stationers, who, for their singular loyalty, obtained the first Charter of London, 1684."

The Stationers' Company, as related in the ballad, obtained a restoration of their charter in consequence of their dutiful submission to the court. It is probable that the persons alluded to in the ballad as " Dick," " Jack," " George," " William," etc., were apprentices, distinguished in their day for their adherence to the popular side. The ballad was sung to the tune of " The Winchester Wedding."

In London was such a quarter,
That like was never known,
About the forfeited Charter,
Betwixt the Crown and the Town.
The masters were crowding before,
The prentices i' th' rear did fall,
There were a thousand and more
Attended to lead up the brawl ;
Kit arm'd with a fork and a spade,
And Bob with a shovel and fork,
But Tender was for a surrender
And now it began to work.

Quoth Willy, what lose the Charter ?
I'll sooner lose my head :
Quoth Bob Hog, I'll die a martyr
Before that shall ever be said.
Quoth John, you may shut up your shopping,
Your Charter was all your shield,
For every seaman of Wapping
May be freeman now of the Guield,
Quoth a butcher, the beggarly French,
Will out of our mouths eat the bread ;
But the weaver he cock'd up his beaver,
And valiently march'd at the head.

But Stationers-Hall so loyal,
 The Charter by which they meet,
 The gift of his Ancestors Royal,
 Did humbly lay at his feet :
 Whose suit he so far befriended,
 Their liberties knew no bound.
 Their Charter her Whigs extendeth,
 Thro' London, and full four miles round.
 And now from the Bygot and Whig,
 (To distinguish the good men and true)
 The table is purg'd, and rabble
 With the members excluded withdrew.

With limping Dick the zealous,
 Went doting Yea and Nay,
 And squinting Jack so zealous
 Lest loyalty got the day.
 With these Jack Thumb was reckon'd,
 And hungry Will of the Wood ;
 And Frank the first and the second,
 And George that will never be good.
 And thus they did trip it along,
 Whilst William led up the brawl,
 But John did storm above any
 To be turn'd out of the Hall.

Jack gave his right hand to Harry,
 Who almost his pace had lost,
 And swore if the day they carry,
 The loyal should pay for the roast.
 But Bob Hog who made a tryal,
 And found how the jig would go,
 Resolv'd to change sides and be loyal,
 And all the Dissenters said " No " :
 Thus whilst to the Charter or law
 They would no obedience yield,
 The glory was still, true Tory
 Is master of the field.

Now to the stationers honour,
 The Charter is on record ;
 Great Charles the bountiful donor,
 Their franchises has restor'd ;
 To whose everlasting glory
 Thy honour will still redound ;
 That they are the first in story.
 Who London's Charter did found ;
 Then to the brave founder a health,
 Who first did our freedom create ;
 A bumper to Charles, to the rumper
 A halter, and Robin Hogs fate.

First issued in 1833, and entitled " The London Booksellers, or What's in a name," the next item is particularly interesting for its clever punning on the names of contemporary booksellers. It is also interesting to note how many of the names have, with the course of time, disappeared.

Long hail to Longman and his longer Co.,
 Pride of our City's Paternoster Row !
 Thy trade forego in novel trash romantic,
 And treat the world to something more gigantic.

Let Underwood all essays sell on trees,
 On shrubs, or growth of brushwood, if he please ;
 All works on brewing leave to Mr. Porter ;
 To Boosey, temperance for his firm supporter.

Leave to friend Bull all works on horned cattle,
 While Reid will teach the youthful mind to prattle ;
 Give Bohn anatomy ; give Mason sculpture ;
 Gardiner's engrafted upon horticulture.

For valuation tables on the price of land,
 Why should we seek ? since Byfield is at hand ;
 For works on draining either bog or fen,
 In Marsh and Moore we have a choice of men.

Give Sherwood tales of merry men, who stood
 Firm to their robbing, around Robin Hood.
 Ogle take optics— Miller, works on grain—
 Ridgway, on railroads—surgery with Payne.

Hail, Pic-a-dilly, Hatchard, thy vocation
 Should be prolific, for 'tis incubation ;
 Thy pious care brought Egley into note,
 And still on Gosling some folks say you dote.

But to my plan. To make the dull ones plod-well,
 Books for the use of schools give Mr. Rodwell ;
 And works on painting should you ever lack,
 You need not brush to either Grey or Black.

From Cowie works on vaccination fetch—
Pedestrian tours from Walker or from Stretch ;
 And if in search of wonders you should range,
 Where can you seek them better than from Strange ?

The suffering climbing-boys our pity claim—
 To aid their interests, Suttaby, I'd name ;
 And as they're oft of churchyard terrors slaves,
 Print works to cure them, O, Moon, Boys, and Graves !

For plans of bridges, Arch would be the best ;
 For stairs and steps on Banister I'd rest ;
 All that relates to church or chapel holy,
 I vote that such be Elder's business solely.

Sustenance on diet surely ought to treat ;
 Joy gives us human happiness complete ;
 Tilt will all works on tournament enhance ;
 The law—oh ! that of course I leave to Chance.

Priestley and Chappell may divide theology,
 Hookman and Roach the angling and ichthyology ;
 And for phrenology, what need of rumpus,
 One for his nob will do—so take it, Bumpus !

The Pun would seem to have been considered a necessary ingredient of the songs and ballads of this period, and in many instances its use was brought to a high degree of perfection. The following poem, entitled "The Foul Proof" has been extracted from Johnson's "Typographia."

Ye Authors list ! we must a tale unfold,
 Which, doubtless, some of you have oft been told ;
 You little dream how much poor Typo's vex'd,
 When with bad copy his mind's sore perplex'd ;
 Nor is this all, he still has cause to dread
 The Reader's gall, when first his proof is read ;
Corrected now, to you 'tis straight convey'd,
 And in a trice the greatest havoc's made ;
 Methinks we see you every page survey,
 As with blunt pen the world's map you portray,
 The numerous marks, on its margin's plain,
 Appear like soldiers in the battle slain !
 The proof's return'd—the Chapel's members all
 Rush to the stone, obedient to his call,

To view this carnage, though no blood appears,
 Yet e'en the sight awakes their manly fears !
 Aloud they roar—enough to strike him dead,
 “ A mob, a mob, th' riot act must be read ! ”
 His grief to soothe—they, sympathising, bawl,
 “ Patience and a sharp bodkin cures all ! ”
 His form, with heavy heart, he then lays up,
 And letters seeks, which fills his bitter cup.
 How often, when correcting at the stone,
 He's prayed for you, while breaking his breast-bone !
 Reflect, when next you wield your potent quills,
 And spare the printer all these dreaded ills :
Revise transcribe, and make your copy right,
 Thus save his labour and his precious sight !

Much has been written from time to time about that—once—very necessary, but it is to be feared much maligned little person, the Printer's devil. If we may believe all we read of him we can only conclude that he was truly one of those many noble but unknown heroes, for it was his lot invariably to receive more kicks than ha'pence. Some of his doings were once recounted in the “ Comic Magazine ” in the form of a narrative poem.

THE PRINTER'S DEVIL'S WORK.

To Printing-house Square, at close of day,
 The young Printer's Devil is bound
 To set up the Paper that circulates most,
 Or the Paper that most turns round.
 And over the leader, and over the news
 He skimm'd, and over the speeches :
 And the lines in the leader stood wide apart,
 Like W—I's waistcoat and breeches.
 And pray what did the Devil do ?
 Oh ! he was expert at the art ;
 And first, just to keep his hand in play,
 In a “ Horrible Murder ” took part.
 But the Devil he very soon finish'd the job,
 And came to a regular stand ;
 When, for the want of some better employment,
 In a “ Robbery ” he had a hand.
 He set up a joke by W—I ;
 But thinking it couldn't be meant,
 The Devil smil'd ; for he headed it
 “ A Serious Accident.”
 A speech of the Marquis of L's came next,
 But it was beyond endurance ;
 So the Devil took pity, and headed it
 “ A Melancholy Occurrence.”
 But then the young Devil bethought himself,—
 He might in an error fall ;
 For a speech such as that, he clearly saw,
 Requir'd no head at all.
 He then had a speech of H—t's to do,
 Where, mirabile dictu ! a word or Two of his Latin Mr. H. recollected ;
 And he called that a “ Horrible Murder.”
 A joke too, by C—r, came into his hands,
 But it was too witty a brevity
 To be C—r's own ; so he headed it “ Extraordinary Longevity.”

However, he thought at a heading like that
 Some persons might kick up a bobbery ;
 And, as the joke was a decided Joe Miller,
 He called it a " Daring Robbery."

He set up a leading article, on
 The advantage 'twould be to the nation—
 If Lord Grey would but make a new batch of peers,—
 Which he called " Beauties of the Creation."

A speech on Reform too by W——l he did ;
 So full of disjointed inelegance,
 And so far from the purpose, he headed it
 With the title of " Foreign Intelligence."

The debate on Pluralities next he compos'd ;
 But, finding the incomes so large
 And the duty so little, he headed it
 " Extraordinary Charge."

An extract from Satan Montgomery's poems
 Is the next thing the Devil commences ;
 But he sees that it's humbug, and, when its composed,
 He puts it among the " Offences."

A speech of St.P——l was his next job ;
 But it was too much for the elf,
 And he was unable to set up the speech ;
 For he couldn't set up himself.

So into a corner the Devil sneaks,
 O'ercome by so prosy a sample,—
 Composes himself,—and leaves the Times
 To follow his example.

An old-time poet's anathema upon a poor printer who had in some way succeeded in displeasing the scribe is sufficiently amusing to reproduce :—

May all your columns fall in pie
 Each chase be gnawed by rust ;
 Weak, weak as water be your lye
 Your cases filled with dust.

May all your sticks untrue be made,
 Your frames too high or low ;
 No page upon the stone be laid
 Where it should rightly go.

May all your rules be short and rough,
 Your bodkin but a nail ;
 Your balls be like a barber's puff,
 And rats your pelts assail.

May crooked stand of type each time,
 Your press run hard for oil ;
 Your gallies ten degrees inclined,
 Your paste be vermin's spoil.

May all your devils idle be,
 Yet look to your for bread ;
 And may you ne'er from duns be free,
 Until your dead—dead—dead—

As an example of those good old rollicking trade songs which one at time were much indulged in at convivial meetings and dinners we cannot do better than reproduce the " Song " which was specially written for the Liverpool Typographical Society in 1823. It is essentially a technical composition, and the clever play upon words is not the least of its merits. It runs :—

"Ye famed men of letters, companions so jolly
Take copy from me, and chase out melancholy;
To the point I'll soon come, Sirs, not run it on long
Ere a period I put to the lines of my song.

Huzza! for the Printer, may care never press him;
But friendship and love ever bless him, huzza;

On Mersey's wide margin I went on the tramp,
My stick in my hand, short of quoins, spirits damp;
When a fair slender female, of paragon face,
Began soon to set me in much lower case.

Huzza! &c.

Her figure was capital—'twas nonpareil,
Her look—Oh! what cut could ex-press such a smile?
Sprung she seem'd from no minion, but some English Earl,
For her rings were all set with bright diamond and pearl.

Huzza! &c.

In my heart Cupid's shooting-stick made devastation,
And she soon gain'd a point of my great admiration!
I stood like a column, her galley-slave I
On the rack lest she'd batter my heart with the QUI

Huzza! &c.

Though reduced to a cypher, I soon number'd hopes up,
And sorted in English my figures and tropes up;
Type letter, nor manuscript, e'er could record
Each impressive paragraph, sentence, and word.

Huzza! &c.

A kiss I imprinted—an impression made;
No bar to my wishes, I hotpressed the maid;
My registered vows, as her page, rose above,
And em-braces soon proved the full token of love.

Huzza! &c.

The matter revised, to the chapel we ran,
Where the father, with book-work, soon bound us in one;
Made up by the job, I was lock'd up in joy;
No sorrow could get in, my mind to annoy.

Huzza! &c.

'Tis true, she would fret me with cross-rule and clatter,
And then, to make even, I went on the batter;
But my errors corrected, by her admonition
Of myself she soon gave me a second edition.

Huzza! &c.

It may be out of form, yet a verse I'll insert—
May yet still, lads of metal, your metal exert;
Composed may the fount of your glee ever flow;
May health brace your nerves, and distribute all woe.

Huzza! &c.

If foes to the press, monks, or friars, be dreaded,
Oh! then be your cannon, well pointed and leaded:
The foes to the press, kings or despots anointed,—
May you beat them to death with your cannon well pointed

Huzza! for the lever, slave-fetters to sever;

The press, freedom's bulwark, for ever, huzza!

My song unrevised, Sirs, here gives me much trouble,
I find in last verse I have made a sad double;
But you pressed me to sing, and though out, I've no doubt
You'll kindly o'erlook every "double" and "out."

Huzza! &c.

When your frames become battered with age, and look lank,
 May you still have laid up a large heap at the bank ;
 And when to the light-house at evening you start, O !
 In landlord's good books—may you LIGHT on a quarto !
 Huzza ! &c.

Though oft you impose, in this world without feeling,
 And with hell and the devil have daily some dealing ;
 'Neath the stone, when in coffin you'r laid, may a column
 Your fame and worth publish as long as a volume.
 Huzza ! &c.

And now, since we're met here to feast and to drink,
 To a sentiment, sure, I've a tittle, I think,—
 Till here for our pudding again we shall hie,
 May you live on the fat of the land without pie.
 Huzza ! &c.

But one could go on ad infinitum, although it is to be hoped not ad nauseam : our space, however, draws to a close. A subject like the present one must necessarily resolve itself into a string of quotations and from the standpoint of literary form it must necessarily appear somewhat disconnected. Consequently it is a trifle difficult to be always consistent, and if one cannot be so in regard to the subject, one can at least be consistent in one's inconsistency ! With this end in view, we may perhaps, conclude this, it is to be feared, already over-long article with the following, really beautiful and well worth pondering upon, "Prayer—proper to be inserted in all books."

You who for reading feel a boundless rage,
 And penetrate beyond the title page :
 To you this rude petition I address,
 In hopes you'll kindly lessen my distress.
 But chiefly, ladies, your support I crave ;
 Oh ! deign your helpless supplicant to save :
 In me you view a wretch of strength devoid,
 Like you too oft neglected when enjoyed ;—
 Ah ! make me, then, the object of your care ;
 Tear not my leaves to ornament your hair ;
 If married, save me from your children's gripe,
 Nor let my pages light your husband's pipe ;—
 For what avails the printer's toil and care—
 His anxious wish to make me clean and fair
 From errors, picks, and monks,—'tis not enough,—
 " Revised, corrected, carefully worked off."

My plates and binding spare ; for these defac'd,
 Spite of my innate worth, I'm oft disgrac'd.
 If I attend you when you sip your tea,
 Be careful not to spill it over me ;
 Fill not my bosom, when you eat, with crumbs,
 Turn me not o'er with damp or greasy thumbs ;
 Aside your face turn when you sneeze or cough,
 And spare my corners where you last leave off.
 Neither do you my pliant back displace,
 By lying me wide open on my face.
 Avert such ills ! or, I, exposed to all,
 May, unoffending, prematurely fall.
 So shall my pages legible remain,
 And at some future period chase your pain :
 Amusement with instruction strive to blend,
 And soothe your sorrows when you want a friend,
 So may your days be spent in social peace,
 Your cares diminish, and your joys increase ;
 Your charms shine forth unrivall'd to the view,
 And gain the homage to your merit due.

COLLOQUIALISMS

(not necessarily bibliographical)

In the Index it often happens that an author's name appears under two or more forms of spelling. It must not be thought from this that there has been carelessness in compiling the Index. The names are reproduced in the auction-catalogues from the actual title-pages, and have again to be reproduced in B.A.R. or the searcher might fail to find the entry he wants. A case in point in the present volume is that of Rampengolis (p. 398) while on pages 111 and 471 the name is printed as Rampigollis. Both forms have to go into the Index, but fortunately they are next to each other. As a matter of fact Brunet prints the name as Rampegolis but refers to Ampigolius, which seems to have been the real name of the author. There is only one golden rule in indexing, viz., to produce the name exactly from the title-page. Then the enquirer, who may know nothing whatever of the author's real name, can find what he is in search of.

* * *

The same rule applies to initials, which vary according to the language in which the author's name appears. An instance is that of Sannazarius. He appears in the forms of Sannazarius (A. S.); Sannazarius (G.); and San-nazaro (J.). If the enquirer, and especially the inexperienced one, sought for the book under the real name instead of that which is on the title-page he would never find it. That is the reason for such apparent inconsistencies being in the Index, and not from oversight. The sole object of an Index is that the searcher should find what he seeks.

Yet another case in point is the custom of some authors having the prefix "Monsieur" instead of the Christian name, when it appears in the catalogues as "M." and is reproduced in B.A.R. On page 117 of this volume Scarron thus appears as "M." Scarron, whereas his name was "Paul." The Index enables the edition to be found, but it seems as if B.A.R. were at fault in printing the "M."

* * *

Occasionally, as it is well known, misprints and slight typographical errors creep into most, probably into all books of reference. The creepy things used, in the earlier volumes, to appear in B.A.R., being reproduced from elsewhere. Of late, through bitter experience, I think they have been got down to a fine point, and, so far, only one error has been discovered in vol. 14, and that was from a catalogue. It has been duly noted on page xxi. of the present volume. But to-day I had to turn-up our chief English bibliographical authority—Lowndes—for an entry under the head of Walker and there found Sir William Wallace's Actes and Deides, 1570, entered as being by 'Walker (Sir William)', and a work by Sir William Waller is attributed to Sir William "Walker." Such errors occur through the carrying-over of authors' names from the foot of one page to the head of the next.

Mr. William J. Campbell, of Philadelphia, has compiled the following volume, and it is issued by the Curtis Publishing Company, of that city:—The Collection of Franklin Imprints in the museum of the Curtis publishing Company, (Independence Square) with a Short-Title Check List of all the Books, Pamphlets, Broad-sides, etc., known to have been printed by Benjamin Franklin, imp. 8vo., handsomely printed on fine and thick paper, (only 475 copies). It is an invaluable contribution to the bibliography of Franklin, and indispensable to any one interested in the subject. The following extract from the preface shows the scope of the work. "The collection contains the first publication on which Franklin's name appeared as publisher; the first book on which he is known to have worked while in London; the first book on which he worked when he and Meredith set up in business for themselves; the first book to bear his imprint alone after Meredith left him; the last book to bear his name issued from his Philadelphia press; and specimens from the press that he set up at Passy, for his own amusement, while he was Ambassador to France." There is also an account of Franklin's life and career, occupying 28 pages.

In a notice of this year's part 3 The Times Literary Supplement very properly pointed out the fact that on page 296 "G. C. Brace" was given as the name of one of the authors of Bibliotheca Cornubiensis instead of "G. C. Boase." Fortunately I keep the original records for some months after a Part is printed, and there I see that "Brace" is given in the catalogue. When dealing with many thousands of records each year it is impossible to be omniscient, and when such an error appears in a catalogue it is apt to creep into B.A.R. All one can do is to announce the error when discovered, and I am always much indebted to those who point them out.

But the most amusing thing is that in the very notice which indicates the "Brace" error, (which was not my error), Mr. Huntington's name is given as "Huntingdon" although it is correctly spelt in the Key to Sales. This is another example of the Nemesis which the reviewer speaks of as being at the elbow of those who point out other persons' errors. The reviewer, by-the-way, speaks of them as being other "people's" errors, which of course is incorrect. The word should have been "persons."

* * *

Many booksellers, and all his friends, will much regret to hear of the death, at the age of 45, of Mr. G. A. Poynder of Reading. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him. The business will be continued by his widow, under the management of Mr. W. G. Grant and Miss Joan Poynder.

* * *

Mr. Frank Hollings, 7 Great Turnstile, W. C. is the first bookseller to adopt a system of abbreviations, and at the head of his latest catalogue he has reprinted the "Key to the Abbreviations" from B.A.R. It is a most sensible innovation, and saves not only space, (which in these times of shortage of paper is of national importance), but saves money also, while the descriptions are just as plain as when printed in the usual long-hand.

If any subscriber of mine should have on his shelves, for sale, My Remembrances, the Melancholy Tale of "Me," by Edward H. Sothern, (Cassell, 1917), he should read it before parting with it. The author is the second son of E. A. Sothern, the famous farceur and impersonator of "Lord Dundreary." It is the most delightful book I have read for many a year, and every page makes you feel better and happier for its racy humour. The book belies its title, for there is nothing "melancholy" about it. Indeed, the closing sentence of one chapter is worth quoting:

It is something in a work-a-day world to make laughter re-echo through the years. "This is a practise as full of labour as a wise man's art."

FRANK KARSLAKE

* The error was in the auction-catalogue and escaped notice.

By an error of the marker 14 lots which were sold by the Anderson Auction Company, New York, on April 29th, were marked as having been sold a few days earlier. It was possible to correct five of them at the last moment. The uncorrected ones are as follows. The corrections can easily be made with a pen:

Key to Sales—Vol. 15, Part 1

(Owing to war-conditions the American Sales did not start so early as usual in the autumn of 1917, and only one sale, at New York, is recorded in this Part. Catalogues are, however, beginning to arrive and will appear in Part 2. It is not every new subscriber who will understand the importance of the records of American sales which now appear in B. A. R. It lies in the fact that America is the largest market for scarce books outside our own country, and that it is desirable to know what prices are being obtained in the States for such books as we export there. Much appreciation of these records has been shewn by those who realize their value)

BOOK-AUCTION RECORDS

These records are necessarily exact reproductions (abbreviated) of the catalogue-descriptions, and the editor disclaims responsibility for grammatical or other errors which may appear therein, unless such errors are obviously typographical misprints in the originals. Where no sizes are given the books are 8vo. et infra. Where no binding is stated it is understood to be the original cloth or paper covers, as published. The following is a key to the abbreviations :—

a. u. n. =	absque ulla nota	ills. =	illustrations
advts. =	advertisements	1st =	first
Anr. Edn. =	Another edition	l. g. =	gothic letter
bnd. =	bound	L. P. =	Large Paper
b. l. =	Black Letter	lib. =	library
ca. =	circa (about)	m. =	marbled
cf. =	calf	mor. =	morocco
cold. =	coloured	N. Y. =	New York
cont. =	contemporary	ob. =	oblong
dup. =	duplicate	orig. =	original
e. =	edges	P.P. =	Privately Printed
ed. =	edited	plts. =	plates
Edinb. =	Edinburgh	port. =	portraits
edn. =	edition	Pres. copy =	Presentation copy
engs. =	engravings	s. =	sprinkled
ex. =	extra	s. d. =	sans date
fo. =	folio	ser. =	series
front. =	frontispiece	t. e. g. =	top edges gilt
g. =	gilt	trans. =	translated
g. l. =	Gothic Letter	vol. =	volume
g. t. =	gilt top (same as top edges gilt)	v. y. =	various years
hf. =	half	vell. =	vellum
		w. a. f. =	with all faults

When, for example, a binding is stated to be mor. ex., t. e. g.—the term t. e. g. i. e. top edges gilt—implies that the other edges are uncut. When the other edges are cut the fact is stated. In some exceptional cases—such, for instance, as a first edition of 'Waverley' or an 'Endymion'—when the condition of "original boards, uncut" exists, and accounts for an abnormal price, the description is given without abbreviation. In some instances autographs are stated in the sale-catalogues to be on the titles or elsewhere in the books. When such autographs are not mentioned in B.A.R. it is only because they are of no known persons, and have no bearing whatever on the prices realized. Titles are abbreviated in the case of books in Lowndes and Brunet, and when known to be not in those works the titles are given as fully as may be necessary. The names of the auctioneers, with the date of sale and number of the lot, are given within brackets, immediately before the price, thus :—(S. Dec. 16 ; 516). This would represent Sotheby's, December 16, 1917 ; lot 516, while any month from January to August refers to the year 1918. The auctioneers represented are ;

A.—Adam & Sons, Dublin	H.—Hodgson & Co.
B.—Bennett, Dublin	M.—Morrison, Dick & McChlery, Glasgow
C.—Christie, Manson & Woods	P.—Puttick & Simpson
D.—Dowell, Edingburgh	S.—Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge
E.—Edmiston, Glasgow	St.—Stevens

For American auctioneers see the Keys to Sales. Magazines are sold "with all faults." Lots containing two or more works are not recorded except in very rare instances, when the value of one work overshadows the others, and the lot is bought for it alone. Composite lots mostly afford no criterion whatever of values. Where no initials are given it is because they do not appear in the sale-catalogues and are unknown to the editor. The names of binders, when of importance, are in B.A.R. When not stated, although printed in the sale-catalogues, the reason is obvious. When the names of buyers are not given it is solely because, in those cases, they are not obtainable from the auctioneers. The spelling in B.A.R. is always that of the original titles, and apparent errors are not misprints. The same applies to some accents in foreign languages of which the type does not invariably permit, and also to old and erroneous punctuation.

- * A footnote at page 9 commences,—“Second Edition.” Copies bearing this were attributed by Mr. Cohn, the author of “Bibliography of George Cruikshank,” as the “Spurious 1st Edition”. The Association has recently received from Mr. Cohn a letter in which he says : “I am afraid, in reference to your query re Egan's Life in London, that the use of the word ‘spurious’ in my bibliography was rather unfortunate. Several correspondents have written me, seeming to think that the edition with the footnote was some sort of unauthorized or false edition. This of course is not the case. The correct way to describe it is.—‘Second issue of the First Edition.’ I agree with you that the footnote often occurs in the parts, but an issue in parts is not necessarily always a first issue. What I think really happened was this : an insufficient number of copies of part one was printed, owing to the enormous success of the book, and it ran out of print. Upon reprinting the footnote was added, the words ‘second edition’ may be taken as referring to the second edition of part one only, not of the whole book, but a true first issue of the work should be without the note.”

- * There are two issues, 1649 and 1650 (the former having 27 contributions and the latter 36), the earlier title was suppressed, and the 1650 one substituted; 2 leaves were added between pp. 42-3, and 9 leaves after p. 74, containing the extra poems, including one by Dryden. This copy is important as it shows the book and titles in both states, and in addition has inserted the two ll. sign F 1, 2, containing a Postscript, and the poem by A. Marvell, (which appears also on the leaves inserted between pp. 42 and 43). These two leaves were cancelled in the majority of copies.

- * This was a private magazine dealing with Gad's Hill and the Dickens family. All the numbers included in this lot, except that for Jan. 6 and the supplement for Jan. 27, 1866, were printed at the press presented to the family by W. H. Wills. The numbers from Dec. 30, 1865, onwards, including the supplement to Jan. 27, 1866, have Dickens's crest. The various numbers give accounts of happenings at Gad's Hill, sporting intelligence—chiefly cricket and billiards, etc.; in the number for Dec. 30, 1865, there is a thrilling account of Dickens' railway accident. From internal evidence, it seems probable that Feb. 3, 1866, was the last number issued. There were then forty-six subscribers, but on July 29, 1865, there were only thirty so that all numbers of the Magazine must be excessively rare.

June 27 ; 481) Karlake, £25
- * An interesting Manuscript of this famous comedy. It was apparently written out for the Author and presented by him to Mrs. Crewe, afterwards Lady Crewe, to whom Sheridan dedicated the printed version of the play. The inner cover bears the monogram "F. A. C.," with a coronet above, being the book-mark of Lady Crewe. A comparison of the text of this MS. with the play as usually printed (see Works of Sheridan, by Brown, vol. 2, 1873), reveals a number of variations. In some cases the readings agree with the version as printed in 1902 by Fraser Rae from the MS. at Frampton Court.

* The editor is always very grateful to subscribers who inform him of any errors in B.A.R., as they can then be indicated in the next issue and no further harm result. In volume 14 not a single error has been discovered, except that the 1754 edition of Fielding's Don Quixote in England was described as being the first edition. This, however, was copied from the auction-catalogue, and attention has since been drawn to it. In dealing with 15,000 records each year assistants have to be depended upon for some of the technical details, and it is always possible for slight errors to occur. There is, in fact, no known bibliographical work in which errors do not occur, as, for instance, Lowndes and Brunet.
